Each person consists of many layers. Layers make up the complexities which embody each individual. Each person's layers overlap and each of us share components of them with other people. As our identities evolve, each layer represents another aspect of our life. When we begin high school, we have fewer layers than when we exit.

Opening by Sara Osman & Sam Embry

During freshmen year, we enter high school seeking to do well and find out who we are. We open our lockers for the first time, look at our schedules, and think about how great it is to finally be in high school. As Freshmen we meet our best friends, go to our first school dance, have a crush on a cute senior, and feel excitement about getting older. As Freshmen, we build our identity with additional layers.

As Sophomores, we step into high school and believe that we own the place. No longer freshmen, we have a new attitude and new layers. Still, we search for ourselves as we attempt to fit in and begin to achieve in a variety of areas. We follow our daily routines, get our drivers licenses, expand our circle of friends, and talk about parties. As sophomores, we make new best friends, go out with our friends every weekend, and talk about getting older.

During Junior year, we become upper classman. We begin to realize that we are growing up. As Juniors, we realize who our true friends are and cherish the time we spend with them. We find where we fit in, yet we still seem to be looking for something else. Two years earlier we started talking about college, thinking it was still so far away, and now we are making our final plans. Our layers multiplied quickly.

As Seniors ,we finally realize that we could have waited to get older. We realize that time has somehow slipped away and soon we will be saying good-bye. We add our final high school layers during high school's greatest rite of passage, graduation.

The day has finally arrived as seniors look out at the Fume Blanc Commodore. There is no turning back. Long gone are the days when the seniors waited for the end of high school. Their heads are reeling from nostalgia. They cannot help but look back at their footprints and wonder where their lives will lead them next. Banquet is the first of a series of events that seniors attend. They say their last good byes to the familiarity they knew for the last four years. Now, they have to venture out into the unknown. These are their last farewells to their fellow classmates, to free education, and to the end of the first chapter of the rest of their lives.

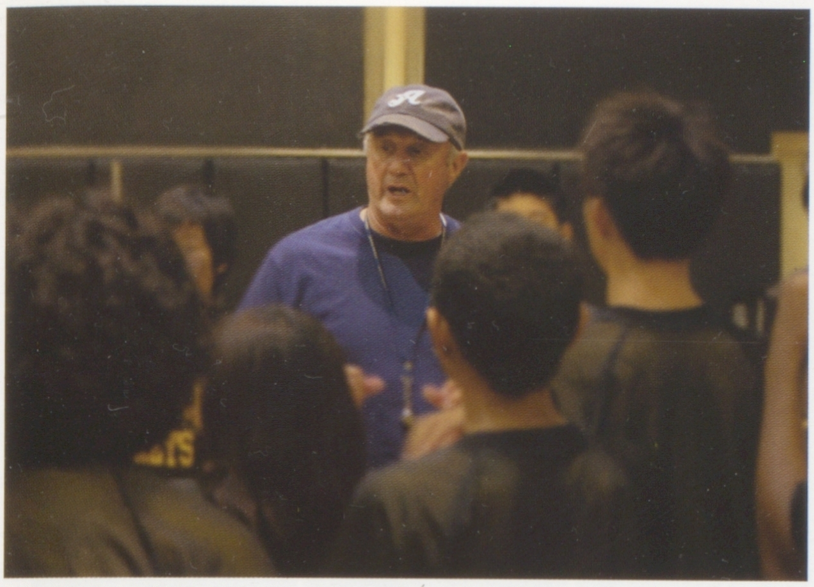
Daub

Dr. Dauber, physics teacher, is well known for his colorful personality. "Dr. Dauber is one of my favorite teachers. He is extremely funny, which makes the class a whole lot better. He is always there to answer questions for us and explain things that we don't understand," says Cecilia Nguyen, '11. "He makes learning physics fun no matter what. There's always something new to look forward to." Dr. Dauber even has his own wall dedicated to him in Mr. Friedman's AP Calculus class. According to Dauber, "Anything is not possible."

Supervisor Dimaano is always patrolling the campus to make sure students are getting to class smoothly.

Mr. Nakamura, along with his leadership students, coordinate events for students and faculty.

Ms. Sydow is the very definition of a hard worker and a dedicated teacher. She not only manages the Hive with her marketing students, but also runs DECA, a well known club. Students' first impression of Ms. Sydow is that she is a lovable and warm person. She always goes the extra mile to ensure her students are happy with what they do.

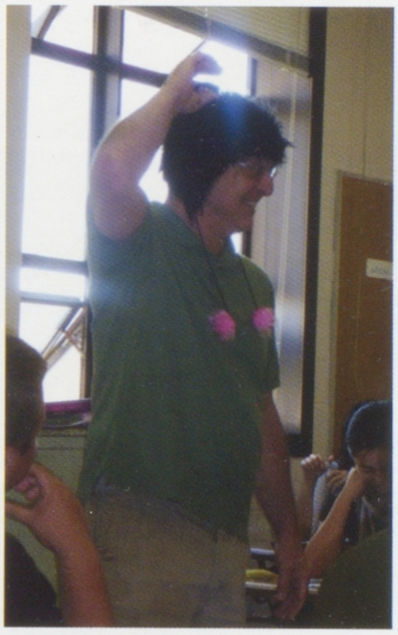


Coach Dunn has been a Physical Education teacher for many years. Calvin Tran, '13, describes Dunn as "an encouraging teacher that promotes fun."

Ms. Yeo instructs Lizzie Reynolds, '14, on the best ways to conjugate the verbs for her sentences.

Ms. Pula never fails to amaze students with her knowledge of how the educational system works. She has many tips and tricks to find scholarships and apply to colleges.

"Ms. McCallister is one of the greatest art teachers here at AHS. Her beautiful paintings and drawings motivate her students to try their best," states Jade Pavao, '11. "She is always giving advice to help students reach their full potential when it comes to their artwork in her class."



Mr. Manno makes his lectures interesting with songs, insightful PowerPoints, and silly puns. "Some people think I'm funny, kind of like the way milk smells after three weeks." There is never a dull moment in Mr. Manno's class, it seems if being funny comes naturally to him.

On a daily basis, Ms. Roemer helps students gain access to information and troubleshoot computers. In addition, she schedules lab times for teachers, gives presentations on search engines, recommends books, changes passwords, and so much more. The AHS community agrees that Ms. Roemer is one its greatest assets!

Mr. Potter and Mr. Hothan give a demonstration to the Auto Shop students. "I like how the teachers really give the students the education we need. When something's wrong with my car, for instance, I know exactly what to do to fix the problem because my teachers have explained and demonstrated the process," says Lori Nguyen, '11.

Madame Gutleben, French teacher, glances at her students to make sure that they are on task. She uses "Bravos" to encourage her students to practice the French language. "We do a lot of partner work, which I find to be really helpful," says Grace Friedman, '14.

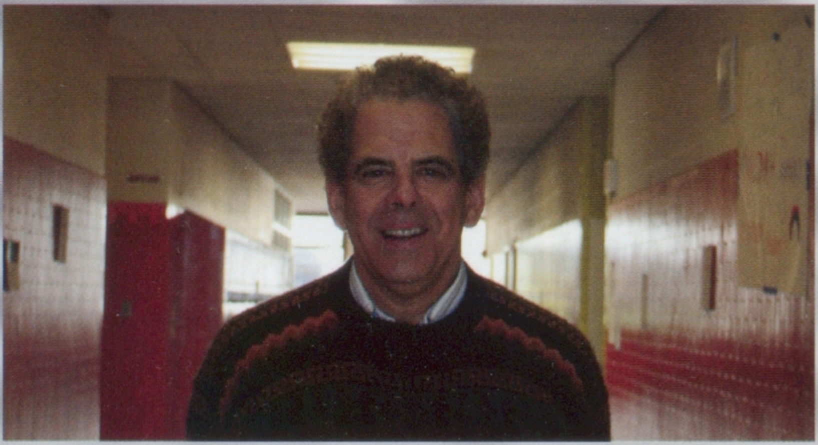
FAVORITE SUBJECT AND TEACHER IN HIGH SCHOOL? WHY?

"Spanish III with Ms. Olsen because I had no idea what was going in the class. Everyone was speaking Spanish, I felt like I was in another country. "
- Mr. Byon

"I really liked English with Ms. Stewart. She taught me to look at the world in a different way, connecting learning to life. "
- Ms. Szeto



"My favorite teacher was Mr. Grebanier. He was a great teacher in Shakespeare. His son Michael Grebanier played in the San Francisco Symphony. I knocked on Michael's door once and told him what a wonderful teacher his father was. "
- Mr. Gross

WHAT DID YOU REMEMBER MOST ABOUT HIGH SCHOOL?

"The principal had everyone gathered in the auditorium and told us that President Kennedy had just been killed. I was confused. I didn't know if I should go my dentist appointment afterward. "
- Ms. Lewis

"The friendships and a party at my friend's house during my senior year. The entire class was there to celebrate. "
- Mr. Stein

"Being in band, playing music, and the beautiful girls. The classes and teachers were boring but my friend could imitate the principle and got kids to stop in the hallways. "
- Mr. Manno

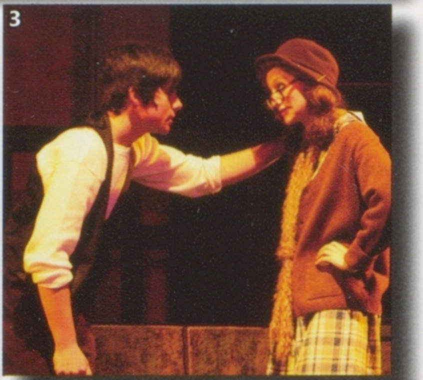
1) The cast of Urinetown performs the final number of the musical. After months of preparation and rehearsal, the cast is proud to present the final product of their play.

2) "My favorite part of Urinetown was opening night," says Mary Kim Hoang, '11, . "I loved bonding with the cast over these past few months and creating memories that I will never forget."

3) Nathan Brown, '11, and Michelle Blackman, '11, play Bobby Strong and Josephine Strong. They enjoyed being part of an ensemble cast.

4) Monica Lee, '11, has been acting for the AHS Drama Department since her Freshman year. She is very comfortable being on stage and performing for a large audience. She plays the lead role of Hope Cladwell.

5) Many characters come together on stage to sing one of the many musical numbers performed in the play.



Emily Kirschenheuter, '11, works behind the scenes of Urinetown as the Stage Manager. It is her job to make sure the play runs smoothly.

Casey Hutchison, '11, plays Penelope Pennywise. She runs the "poorest and filthiest urinal in town."

"My favorite part about the whole experience are the people," states McKenzie Cala, '14. "Everyone is so accepting and extremely talented. I haven't known them for that long, but I've become really close with some of the Seniors and it's going to be really hard to watch them graduate."

Alec Mathieson, '11, plays Caldwell B. Cladwell. In the play, he is the boss of the UGC, Urine Good Company. He is responsible for the fees at the urinals and loves the power he holds. His character is portrayed as the leader of Urinetown. The UGC workers and policemen attempt to regulate all of the urinals in town and make sure that everyone is abiding by their laws. Mathieson performs many songs and shows the audience his dance skills.

Pride of the Horr

homecoming

Homecoming is the time when students go all out for spirit days to represent their classes. Guys and gals from all grades show their spirit and dress as heroes, nerds, and even popular drinks. But the most celebrated day of the whole week is Class Color Day. All grades come together to compete at the homecoming assembly. The competitions include running, rolling across the floor, hopping in potato sacks, and dribbling basketballs.

"It was cool. I got to run out there, get everybody excited, and dance in front of everybody," says Taylor Crutchfield, '11. He plays defensive lineman for the Varsity football team. He had a great time during homecoming assembly and incorporated lots of red into his outfit to represent the Seniors.

The cheerleaders get the crowd fired up at the homecoming assembly. The flyer Vivienne Wong, '11, has a great time during her final year of being a part of the homecoming assembly. "It was really fun, but also kind of sad because it was my last year," she said. She and the other cheerleaders did an amazing job and made AHS proud, both at the homecoming assembly and at the football game later on.

Grace Na and Jessica Trieu, '11, show their spirit by yelling and cheering for the Seniors during the homecoming halftime. "It's kind of hard to believe I've been here for a long three years. I watched the Seniors as a Freshman, and now I am finally a Senior myself," says Trieu..

Utieyin Etchie, '13, roots for the Sophomores at the homecoming parade. She celebrates by wearing her orange shirt proudly and cheering with her friends.

Homecoming by Katie Allan and Rachelle Carrier

The Junior's Jumanji themed float won for first place in the annual contest. "The crowd looked like a sea of green and participating in the float was fun," exclaimed Drew Jones.

"Being in the homecoming assembly was fun and I was happy to represent the freshman class," Sazo says. She showed her spirit at the homecoming assembly and parade, which is why she won the award for most spirited in the Freshman class.
-Maria Sazo, '14

"I put on as much orange as I could. You know, because I'm a Sophomore," says Harkins, and he wasn't lying. He came to the homecoming assembly prepared and excited to represent the Sophomores in their clever detergent-themed shirts.
-Charlie Harkins, '13

"It was lots of fun and cool to see the whole school get together for the spirit of homecoming," comments Daniel Radding, '12. Radding directed and participated in the races, while standing for the Juniors. It worked! The juniors won the races in both the first and second assemblies.

Ryan Hunter, '11, represents De Anza high school at the homecoming assembly. He is dressed up as their mascot in his cowboy costume as he fails in a race against Buzzy, our very own hornet mascot. Later on, AHS also beat De Anza High at the football game with a score of 56-14.

Fads and fashion

Maxwell Walther, '12, pops the collar of his favorite flannel. Walther likes to keep his style relaxed and classic with Vans and jeans." Flannels are my favorite. I have about four or five different ones that I wear a lot," Walther says.

Sarah Peters, '12 describes her style as "pretty simple, but I like to add accessories to my outfits to make it more personal. I don't follow any trends and just try to dress according to my mood."

Fashion is an expression of style. Whether you are feeling lazy and comfortable or professional and classy, your clothes and how you wear them reflect who you are. "I always wear clothes to show how I'm feeling that day. If I don't feel like dressing up, I'll keep it casual and chill," says Abby Rockwell, '12.

"I personally love to see all the new styles that are out there. It's fun to see all the different fashions and new looks that I could try out for myself," says Jessica Burns, '12. Fashion is forever changing, with new trends popping up each day and vintage looks coming back. The possibilities of how to dress are endless."

"I dress like me. The reason I wear what I want is because I have the freedom to create my own style. I just wear whatever suits me," says Ben Goode, '11. Each student at AHS has his or her own style.

Brian Lin, '11 shows off his new haircut from George's. He gets a new haircut every one to two weeks and likes his current hairstyle because he gets positive compliments from girls. "The next thing I want to try with my hair is dreads."

Morgan Hashimoto, '14, and Marika Tsagris, '12, playfully braid their hair together to show the length of each. Hashimoto's hair is 18 inches long and Tsagris's hair is 24 inches.

Family First
family & pets

"I love my dog Mini. If I lost her one day or if she ran away, I would cry my eyes out," says Kiet Tran, '12. A family friend gave Mini to Tran four years ago. She is half Shih Tzu and half Pomeranian. "I remember when I took her out for a walk, it did not turn out so good. She saw another dog and started to run like crazy. She started barking and barking and the owner came to me complaining to get my dog off. When the owner and I turned back, we saw Mini and the other dog being all lovie-dovie."

"This was a good change for my Thanksgiving of 2010", says Gia Morten, '12. "Usually on Thanksgiving I would go to my Italian side of the family to celebrate, but this year I spent it with my Filipino side. I barely get to see my cousins often, and when I did this Thanksgiving they left me a memorable remark. One of my older cousins wanted to organize a pyramid and while he was doing so, my little cousin fell from the table down to the floor trying to hang onto the curtains. My little cousin ended up ripping off the curtains."

"This picture was taken at a friend's 21st birthday party. It was an authentic Indian party and I dressed up wearing a lengha. Lenghas are usually worn by younger girls compared to the saris which are usually for older, married women. A group of four to five family friends get together for special holidays and we celebrate. I like how eventually we always just start dancing at parties," says Anshika Kumar, '13

"We got our kitten in the middle of November from my mom's friend. She fosters kitties from the shelter and gives them away," reveals Jessica Burns, '12. "To decide his name, we made a list of names and started calling them by all and Oscar sounded just right." Burns' favorite past time with Oscar is gently wrestling with him. "He jumps on my arm and tries to attack my hand but he never wins unless I let him."

"At the end of the day, all you have is family," says Sam Esguerra, '11. From our first baby steps, losing a tooth, to taking that awkward prom picture, your family is always right there next to you to support you. Although it seems like students just hang out with friends, we all seem to make that extra time with family. They bring out only the worst and the best in us and that's why we love them. All the times we share, all the memories we make, are the deeper layers that make up our personalities, our life decisions, and ourselves.

"All of my cousins and I are really close. We spend most of our time together," says ThyThy Nguyen, '12. "We are never bored because we are easily entertained. On weekdays, all of my cousins come to my house to play Nerf War, Black Ops and sometimes sing karaoke. On the weekends, we always have something planned or we just go with the flow."

Roya Aimen, '11, attended a party with her sister Michelle Aimen and her brother Mustafa Aimen. "Looking at this picture we have all grown up so much it just makes me miss the fun childish days. I remember when we used to play apple fights in front of our apartment. We always threw it at each other and my sister would always end up getting the most bruises."

Family & Pets by Janie Tran & Sarah Choe

Approximately two and a half months ago, Anh Vo, '13, bought his first dog, Smokey. "In the beginning, it was hard to train Smokey, but later on I was able to train him not to bite. What I did was every time he tried to bite someone, I pulled his tail into his mouth. It worked because he stopped. "

There's never a boring moment when Justine Vu, '11, is with her three brothers and one sister. "We always go to our grandma's house as a tradition and play board games and watch Charlie Brown's Christmas movie. Our favorite game is either Monopoly or Cranium but they always both get really intense which makes it a lot more exciting."

Koe Inlow, '14, travels down to U.C. San Diego to remain close to her sister, Koki. Inlow hopes that one day she and Koki can go on a road trip to New York. "I mostly remember the time we made friends with the people next to us on the airplane. It was awkward at first but now it's our favorite thing to do on the rides."

Neo is Brandon Ng's, '12, American Eskimo. "I've had him for five years and he is the most affectionate dog ever. For three years he lived in Brazil so he's pretty cultured, too." Ng says that Neo's favorite tricks are giving high-fives and spinning. "There's not a day Neo doesn't put a smile on my face."

Tsagaan Turmunkh, Christina Mckinley & Lauren Losande

"I do ballet and I used to do contemporary. Besides that I like to read and I love to paint".
- Dzanela Muminovic, '12

"After school I work for my dad, hang out with friends, and play computer games."
- Alex Thiering, '14

"After school I enjoy hanging out with my friends when I'm not playing softball and working out with P-90x. I workout when I can."
- Gia Morten, '12

Anna Kang, '14, spends her time working on the computer as a pro presenter. She is a presenter for her youth group called Element. Kang says, "Sometimes its hard cause I can't enjoy myself, I constantly have to be on the watch. Its a small job but still has a lot of pressure."

A group of junior friends meet up at Lincoln Middle School to play a game of football. Here Ryan Cooper, '12, goes to catch the ball. Cooper explains, "It's a fun change to get out and play instead of playing video games." Some of these players have been playing football on teams for a long time. Antonio Manibusan, '12, claims, "Football is one of my favorite sports and I really enjoy playing with my friends."

After School/Spare Time by Ken Lee & Casey Thiering

1) Austen Snow, and Ryan Fong, '11, both play the guitar. Snow says, "I have played guitar for about three to four years. What I like about guitar is that it is a versatile instrument and it is fun to play. One song I like to play is 'Animal' by Neon Trees." Fong says, "I have played about 3 to 4 years too. I play the acoustic guitar, it is relaxing to play and releases stress. It also calms the mind. One song I enjoy to play is 'I Will Follow You to the Dark' by Death Cab for Cutie."

2) Caitlin Shener, Sara Fiedler, Ariel Pun, Morgan Hashimoto,Tara Toy, and Elise Yuen, '14, went indoor roller blading. Fiedler says, "It was my friend's birthday party and I enjoyed it because it was fun to spend time with friends."

3) Alan Liang, '11, brilliantly plays the piano. Liang says, "I started piano at three and I took lessons for 8 years. My favorite song is what I played at last year's talent show called 'All of Me' by Jon Schmitt. I also play guitar, but I am more of a song writer. What I like about playing piano is that it expresses emotion, and it is a way to communicate with the crowd."

The Brass section of the jazz band play together in unison to add an emotional yet thick sound. Ron Desmond, '12, says "I have been playing trombone since 6th grade and it is a great feeling to play." They practice a lot in their spare time to keep up their music ability.

After School is a time when students engage in a myriad of enjoyable activities. Students play sports, hang out with friends, or go directly home. After school is a time for students to relax, get work completed, and take pleasure in hobbies. Many students treasure their after school time.

Senior Cece Nguyen sprints towards the juniors' goal line, with Dionna Lee, '12, in pursuit. The teams train hard for moments like this, where being able to run fast for long periods of time is crucial to stopping the opposing players' runs, and conversely, to score.

Cece Nguyen, '11, makes a run while playing quarterback. To score as quarterback can be very difficult, because there is no way to get the ball to the goal besides pushing through the defenders.

"The beginning was weird because I didn't know what I was doing, but in the end it was really fun. The most memorable moment was when Zula Ganzorig was crying because she was so happy we won."

The Juniors and Seniors face off on the line of scrimmage, with the Seniors on offense, and the Juniors on defense. With the seniors about to hike the ball into play, the Juniors need to be ready to stop the coming play.

1) The seniors celebrate their hard won victory, which has broken the long tradition of the Juniors winning every year. After weeks of intense practice, this gives everyone on the team a great feeling of accomplishment.

2) Ciara Morris, '12, runs down the line with Tiki Garcia, '12, blocking the following seniors. Receivers need to have people guarding their backs because it can be very easy to pull off the flags from behind.

3) Francine Kolokihakaufisi Gross, '11, runs through the center of the field for a touchdown, but Linde Huang, '12, dashes in to pull off her flags.

The ball is fumbled after the Juniors receive the kick off, and both teams race for possession. Stephanie Keel Moore, '12, dives for the ball so that her team can stay on offense.

Part of the Seniors team takes a break from playing to rest and discuss the game. The sidelines are a valuable asset to the game, as players can see how their team plays from a different perspective, and make changes to their tactics.

Thy Thy Nguyen, '12, breaks away from the defending group of the Senior team. This maneuver takes a great amount of speed and agility, along with the endurance to run the ball into the goal.

1. Angelina Tran, '12, enjoys spending time with her aunt on Bondi Beach, Australia. Tran later says,"It was fun visiting family in Australia."

2. Exploring Vietnam waters, Jasmine Ho, '14, goes on a site seeing trip with her family of five. "This year we went site seeing for the first time. We usually go and spend time with my Grandparents but we wanted to do something different this year."

3. Meisze Phung, '11, and her family enjoy their vacation on the estuary.

Joyce Cheung, '11, smiles for the camera while her and her friend enjoy a peaceful day on the water. "The boat is a very nice place to relax" Cheung later says.

Gathering around Jamie Banks, '11 are young, underprivileged African girls that are taught about the skills and balance of soccer and academics. Banks and her ACC Mavericks soccer team traveled to Africa to represent women's soccer in the USA. Most girls in Africa quit school to become professional soccer players but the ACCM teammates used their time and encouragement to educate the girls on how to wisely use their time to balance academics and soccer. Banks later says, " We volunteered at one school, but visited many. It made me more appreciative of what I had because even though they had so little they were so happy to see our soccer team. We each brought 3 balls on the plane, and tons of equipment to share with the girls. It was such an honor."

Vacation is a time to sit back, relax, and discover different parts of the world. Whether it is hopping on a plane to Italy, or taking a road trip to your favorite campsite, vacations are about taking a break from the stress of life. It can be a time to spend with family, friends, or a time to spend with yourself. Some people choose to go to the beach, go shopping, travel somewhere, or even study. But no matter what you are doing, it gives you a chance to take a break from the everyday life, do the things you love, and relax.

Numerous students at AHS ride their bikes to school. Not only is a great method of exercise, but biking is also enviromentally friendly. The more students ride bikes rather than drive, the less pollution is created. When parents' aren't able to give rides to certain destinations, biking is a very fast way to get to the location. Students choose to ride their bikes over walking because they can get from place to place much faster.

Dustin Ho, Michelle Licea, Nathan Hidalgo, '11, all have their licenses. Licea says "it is bittersweet because I am able to get to my destinations quicker, but I feel like I'm the one always driving my friends around."

Public transportation is another way that many students get to school. There are numerous buses around Alameda that make the commute easy. Not only is it cheap, but it is also good for the environment. Students are able to interact with one another on the ride to and from school. Also, since the bus is available to everyone in Alameda, many students get the pleasure of seeing friends who attend other schools that they don't really get to see.

Adam Yim, '11, enjoys biking around Alameda with his friends. "Cycling is a very effective way of getting from place to place," says Yim. There are many students at AHS who ride bikes for fun. Fixies, bikes with no breaks, have become quite popular lately. Students try to learn new tricks on their bikes to show off to their friends. The weekends are the most common time for students to take a bike ride around Alameda.

In high school, finding transportation is not always as easy as it seems. While some upperclassmen enjoy the privilege of having a license, lowerclassmen are not as lucky. Some students realize that their parents no longer want to drive them from place to place so they attempt to find another responsible person to lend them a ride. Some students rely on the bus, while others ride their bikes, and some just settle for walking. At times, it can be a bit stressful to find transportation. There are numerous events that students attend, but getting to the locations can be a hassle. As students get older, they often realize that they took their parents' rides for granted. However, most students do manage to find rides from place to place.

Hornets at Work

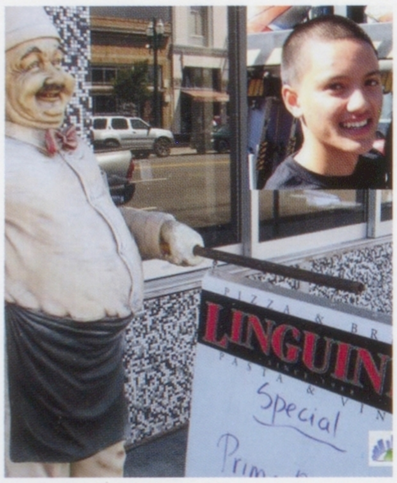
Cameron and Kim Lantz '14 help their neighbors clean up their yards with a rake and a powerful lawn mower. These fraternal twins earn ten dollars per yard and only work in the fall and winter. Kim says that during winter break she and some of her neighbors get together and offer to help make the neighborhood yards look better for company. Cameron states "The job is fun if you are listening to music or making it into a game." He explains that he must be careful because one time the handle on the lawn mower broke, unidentified liquid spilled out and his hand began to burn.

"I like having a job because I get a good amount of tips and they add up quickly. I also get plenty of cash from the paychecks," says Jon-Mykal Reyes, '11. Reyes is a bus boy at Linguinis and he completes many responsibilities such as cleaning tables and making sure the customers are satisfied. He knows that he is held liable if he doesn't follow what his employer tells him to do. He uses his well earned tips to purchase items that he wants to buy for himself and puts his paychecks into his college fund.



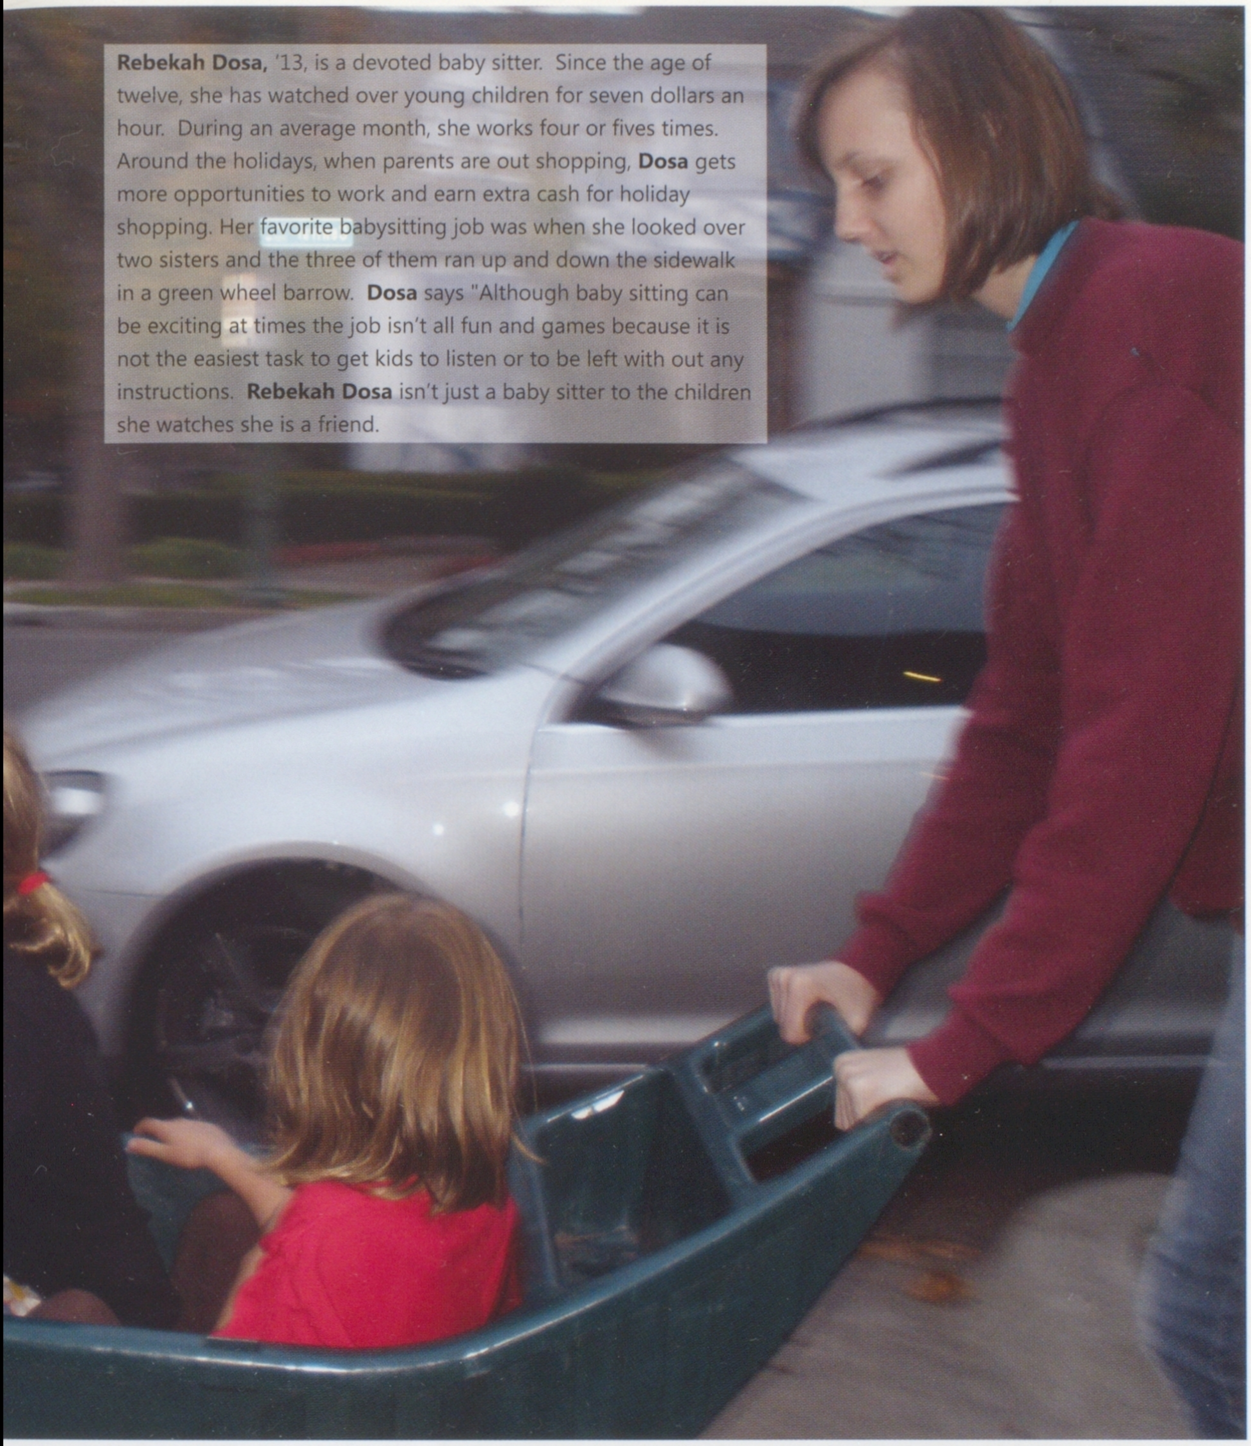
Bryan Gee, ' 11, works at Hawaiian Barbeque and has been working there for the last three and a half years. Gee works three to four hours a day and his place of work becomes most hectic during lunch hours.

Since 7th grade Drew Jones, '12, has been baby sitting for kids ages one through six. Jones works about once or twice a month and works three to four hours each job. She makes over ten dollars a hour.

To earn money, Kathryn dos Remedios, '14, spends her weekends supervising children when their parents are away. She says that her favorite time to baby sit is around the holidays because she can help kids wrap presents and decorate their houses.

Cameron Look, '11, started cutting people's hair last summer because he thought that it would be a good opportunity to earn money. Look normally has five customers a week. The first time you use his services he does not charge. The cost is $5 per hair cut. His services are for anyone who wants a haircut but mostly teenagers go to him for a new look. Here Tyler Yee, '13, gets the finishing touches on his haircut.

Jobs by Kristen Rinck



Rebekah Dosa, '13, is a devoted baby sitter. Since the age of twelve, she has watched over young children for seven dollars an hour. During an average month, she works four or fives times. Around the holidays, when parents are out shopping, Dosa gets more opportunities to work and earn extra cash for holiday shopping. Her favorite babysitting job was when she looked over two sisters and the three of them ran up and down the sidewalk in a green wheel barrow. Dosa says "Although baby sitting can be exciting at times the job isn't all fun and games because it is not the easiest task to get kids to listen or to be left with out any instructions. Rebekah Dosa isn't just a baby sitter to the children she watches she is a friend.

Rocio Samiento, '12, works at Fudgelato. Samiento's least favorite part of her job is she has to work on weekends. One of her favorite moments was when the Park Street clown came in and ordered a panini.

SOCCER POST

Lauren Upp, '11, earns money from her job at Soccer Post. She began her job there in the summer and works on Sundays for seven hours. Her favorite part of the job is the paycheck. To entertain herself while on the job Upp and her co-workers play together.

Max Walther, '12, traveled to Mammoth Mountain this past summer and went biking. "I have been riding since I was 6 years old. Now that I've been riding for 10 years, I'm more experienced than before and my favorite part is going fast." Walther explains.

Erica Ho, '14, Julia Ballou, '14, Matthew Fullmer, '13, and Ryan D. Fong, '11, all fence at the Pacific Fencing Club. "I have been fencing for 5 years. I enjoy it because we learn self defense and its an interesting sport to do. My favorite memory was playing ninja with my components," Ballou expresses.

Sina Pourcyrous, '11, aggressively tries to row towards his objective. He has been rowing for the Oakland strokes for 4 years. He has been doing it since his freshman year. "I like it because its very competitive you always strive to beat your opponent, it also shows endurance and how hard your willing to give all you got to win," Pourcyrous proclaims.

Casey Thiering, '12, Soars through the dunes on his dads new KTM Quad. "I've been riding quads and dirt bikes since I was little. This picture is in Dumont dunes in Southern California. This trip was really fun because my friend Cameron was there and I bought a new dirt bike right before this trip." Theiring says.

Extreme Sport (Adjective): A challenge that arises in which the individual must overcome the obstacle to succeed; A person brave enough to accept a challenge even in the most intense conditions. Extreme sports at Alameda High School are the outlet for individuals who feed off the adrenaline rush that comes from the risk. It is this that brings about passion, strength and the desire to win. Extreme sports can be any type of sport different than the normal sports offered at school. These sports require dedication, compassion, and the endurance of pain, bruises and scars. Nonetheless, through it all, extreme sports measure the amount of heart an individual carries. He or she is the type of person willing to "go out on a limb" in order to achieve happiness, glory, and the impossible.

Scott Ramos, '11, ollies a pole in a nearby park and gets some air. He has been skating since he was 10 years old. "I've had my board for a few years now, it is a Real Deck; it feels good, its fits me personally, and has great pop. I skate everyday, usually I go to the Berkeley skate park under the lights." Says Ramos.

Kelsey McKeon, '12, loves the blue walls in her modern styled room. Her walls are covered with pictures of things that are important to her including her family, friends, basketball and ballet. McKeon says, "I love having my own personal space when I need to be by myself. Also, I like being in my room because I put so much effort into making it the perfect room for me."

As a golfer and student at Alameda, Sam Moyal, '12, has incorporated both aspects of her life into designing her room. Moyal displays both her athletic and scholarly achievement awards on her walls. Her reasoning behind this is that so when she wakes up in the morning "the awards inspire [her] to try [her] best and fully commit to what [she] is doing for the day because all of that recognition is proof of what hard work and determination can really do."

Michael McMillan, '12, designs his room by hanging up old skateboards and pictures of his family and friends. Typically, McMillan likes to keep his room clean. However, every now and then, it can get messy and sometimes results in him hiding the clutter in his closet. But, when his room is clean, McMillan enjoys relaxing in there with friends and family while watching T. V. , listening to music or even warming up by a nice fire on a cold night.

Alisa Hong, '11, likes cutting out anything in magazines that appeals to her and can be added to the huge collage on her wall. Hong explains that the collage is a combination of pictures and drawings that she has collected from friends since her freshmen year of high school. Hong says, "Each object given to me from my friends has a story behind it."

Rosalie Atkinson, '11 covers her bright blue walls with pictures, drawings from her friends, and articles from the Rolling Stones. Atkinson says, "I love my tie dye sheets and my four foot long white tiger stuffed animal."

Personal Space by Andrea Myovich & Rowland Markheim

In addition to his bedroom, Cameron Look, '11, has another room that he calls his own personal space. Look sets up razors, brushes, and mirrors in his bathroom for his hobby, cutting peoples hair. Look likes having a space of his own where he can do what he loves.

Maya Robles Wong, '11, changes her room whenever she wants a change, and picks a different theme every time. She went from a rainforest theme to ice cream and now has a dinosaur theme. "I knew I didn't want it to be any ordinary teenage room so I just started painting things that made me smile. That's how I designed my room."

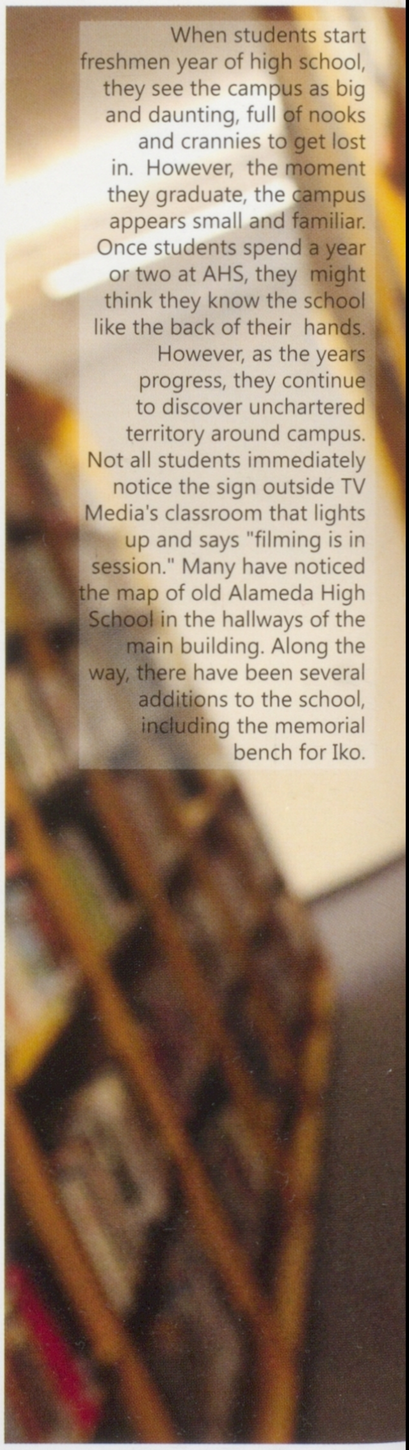
Alameda High is fortunate to have a large auditorium, Koffman. Over the stage, the words of Shakespeare remind the audience that "All the world's a stage, and all the men and women merely players; They have their exits and their entrances, And one man in his time plays many parts."

The courtyard is a popular hangout area for students. One of the two annual Food Faires are held there, people enjoy eating lunch on the benches, and it is a common place for students to relax while they are winding down after being in the classroom for the majority of the day.

The benches by the softball field encircled by the rest of the school are commonly referred to as "the circle." When standing in its center, and depending on which direction one is facing, a variety of views of AHS can be seen. When facing Encinal Avenue, one sees the Main Building. Most students have classes located there, hence its name. Facing it, one can see the Larry Patton Gym, often called the old gym. The circle will remain the meeting point for many students, a reference point for other locations, and the go to place for lounging on the grass.



When students start freshmen year of high school, they see the campus as big and daunting, full of nooks and crannies to get lost in. However, the moment they graduate, the campus appears small and familiar. Once students spend a year or two at AHS, they might think they know the school like the back of their hands. However, as the years progress, they continue to discover unchartered territory around campus. Not all students immediately notice the sign outside TV Media's classroom that lights up and says "filming is in session." Many have noticed the map of old Alameda High School in the hallways of the main building. Along the way, there have been several additions to the school, including the memorial bench for Iko.

Nak stands underneath the Video Taping Sign that is outside the T.V. Media classroom. The sign indicates when the class is taping a video for one of their many projects which students are assigned. The final projects consist of the accumulation of the different segments, flowing together into one masterpiece.

The main building is the most active part of campus. The majority of classes are held there. The building houses four separate computer labs, the library, the main office and the attendance office. The Main Building is home to the Math, English, Social Studies and Science departments. Although it can be a convenient location for most people, it can also be confusing. Many students report walking around in a complete circle and getting lost on the second floor, or tripping while going up the stairs. The central focal point of all memories, the Main Building, will remain imbedded in our lives forever.

5) Audrey Yeung, Vicky Tran, Florence Yuen, and Kelly Huang, '11, show off their red on the final homecoming assembly in their high school life. Huang reflects: "It was the last homecoming, but the best one!"

At Alameda High, students are encouraged to celebrate their unique cultural background and share similar traditions. Students feel comfortable to be themselves with the confidence to be proud of their religion, race, and nationality. As Hornets grow up, they learn to accept and acknowledge the many differences people have. But no matter where they are from or who they are, they are all Hornets at heart. To make the homecoming assemblies a successful and spirited rally, it takes all of the classes combined to create one fun and exciting event. Since the assemblies are a privilege, it is important that every student is respectful towards their peers and cheer on the upper and lower classmen.

"High school can sometimes be a stressful time filled with drama and teenage dilemmas. Some students have different ways of dealing with it and one way of expressing it is through music. "I thought music was cool and my dad inspired me to play guitar." - Matthew Choi, 14

Ranging in hundreds of different genres, music is all around us. "I love Stevie Ray Vaughn and some Jimi Hendrix." - Noah Kang, '11

Many Alameda High students play a variety of instruments and have many influences. "Metallica has influenced me to play guitar. When I play, it's really fast and gives me a lot of adrenaline." - Devin Green,'13

Stephen Sun, '11, strums on his electric guitar while singing a gospel song at his church for his Element Youth Group. Sun attends Grace Point Fellowship church in Alameda where he is a Praise Leader.

Sophomore Colin Brady feels Hawaiian vibes while strumming his ukulele. To add to the tropical environment, Colin wears a traditional Hawaiian shirt just for kicks. His favorite songs to play on the ukulele are "Somewhere Over the Rainbow" and "I'm Yours." Also, he likes to free play to pass the time.

1) Senior Monica Lee is co-president of the Song Writers Club at Alameda High. She feels the rhythm of her music while performing one of her songs and playing her acoustic guitar. Lately, Lee has gotten into more musical theater and drama, but still continues to perform and write songs.

2) Christy Nguyen, '13, quietly sits in her front yard and focuses on her strumming and tune of guitar. "Ive been playing guitar for about four years and it has really helped me with my problems. Whenever I'm feeling down, I can easily go to my guitar and let my feelings out, or when I'm happy I can simply strum and sing bubbly songs. Its always been my kind of escape from reality." Nguyen took guitar lessons at Starland Music Center and hopes to make a career out of her strong efforts.

3) Seniors, Casey Hutchinson, Monica Lee, and Rosalie Atkinson put on an exciting performance for the crowd while adding spontaneous and wild dance moves. The girls enjoy performing together and have done so for a long time because they all have a deep passion for music. "Music to me is like a whole new world filled with emotion, passion, poetry, beauty, experiences, aspriations and much more. I love performing because it's amazing to see the feedback from the audience. It's amazing to see how my music can evoke such a strong strong feeling in someone. If music was a hot and studly man, I would most definitely get with him.",Hutchinson explains. Atkinson quotes, "Music has always been an essential part of my life for as long as I can remember, it has opened up my eyes to so many new experiences."

They have performed at the Davies Symphony Hall in San Francisco. The students have played in the OYO for six years all together. " I started playing because I really had no choice. My mom pretty much made me play, but now I'm glad she did. I now have three periods of band a day, go home and practice, and then off to orchestra practice. When I'm performing, I love the feeling afterwards. Seeing the reaction of the audience and knowing that I touched them in some way is such an eye opening experience. Music has influenced me because it is my whole life," Cruz explains. Both Cruz and Wu plan on making a big step in life with music and are hoping for the best to come.

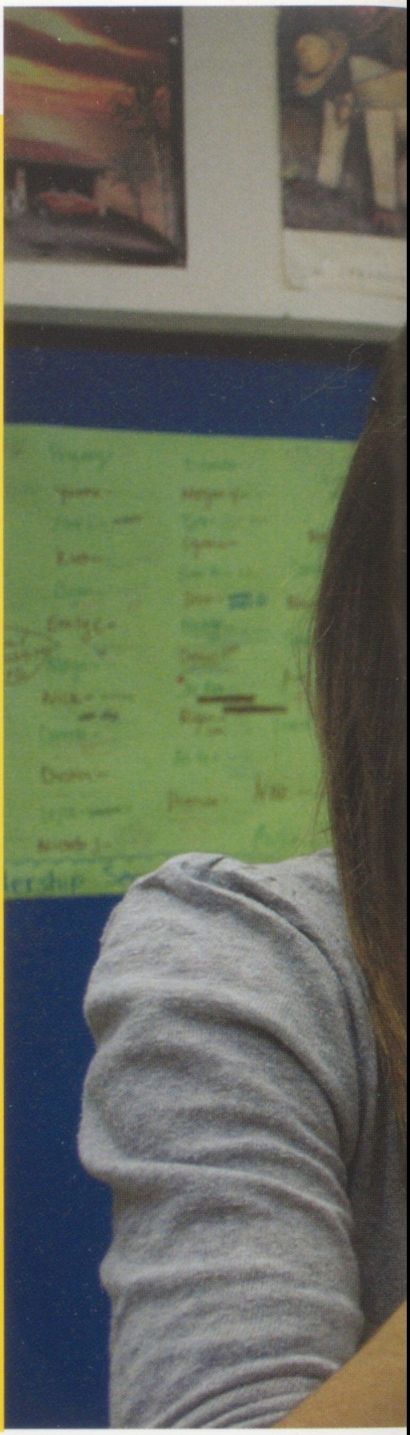
For his Multi Media Art assignment, Sophomore, Tanner Embry, looks through the view finder of the class camera to get a different perspective for taking a picture. Embry, along with his classmates, had to take 10 pictures of interesting things outdoors. Embry made sure he captured unique compositions and tried his best to follow the guidelines of the assignment. Multi Media Art is one of his favorite classes because it allows him to express his creativity and experiment with photography as well as photoshop.

Sophomore, Chris Chan claims, "I bought this G-Shock watch with my own money at Macy's. I really like it because of the bright neon green color and how it stands out." Chan wears his watch daily and finds it more convenient than looking at school clocks.



New technology helps students maintain organization and helps in many facets of every day life. Technology is crucial in students' lives. The most popular technology items today are cell phones, computers, cameras, and much more. Many students feel that they are not able to connect to the outside world and one another without technology. Most students have enjoyed using technology from a young age and continue to make use of it in order to make life much easier.

Diana Panich, '12, loves taking her Canon Rebel XSi everywhere she goes. The fast shutter speed, clear quality, and durability make it an ideal camera for her daily life. Panich likes to look back on her old pictures, and reminisce about the captured moment.

"I bought the iPhone 4Gs because it's awesome, and I can do multiple things at once like go on Facebook, listen to music, and even search the web. I use it everyday and the touch screen makes it a lot easier to text and stuff too. I take pretty good care of it and I even have a nice case to protect it."

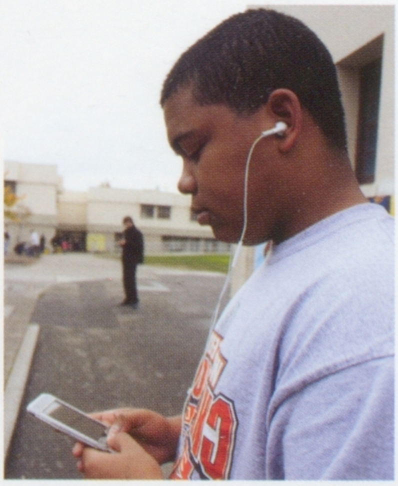
Senior, Megan Averitt, flips through the most recent pictures on her Verizon Wireless "Dare". Averitt uses her hot pink case to protect her phone in case it gets damaged. She considers her phone a valuable belonging.

History teacher, Mr. Manno, considers himself to be a very tech savvy man. He owns the latest apple technology such as the MacBook Pro, iPhone 4G, and the iPod nano.

Freshman, Koe Inlow, recieved her first Nikon DSLR camera this past year for her birthday. Inlow uses her camera daily, and is always trying out new techniques and styles to capture creative pictures. One of her favorite accessories is her fisheye lens because it adds an extra element to the photo.



Drew Huie, '14, searches through his handy iTouch for his favorite song to listen to. Huie uses his iTouch as a way to make it through the day.

"Multimedia Art inspires me to use my creative talents. I started the class this year, and I really enjoy it. I like how I can use computer programs to design different pieces of art."
-William Upp, '14

"Through art I can express my feelings. I have been practicing different styles all my life and it's one of my favorite things to do. I enjoy drawing pictures of random things around Bay Farm."

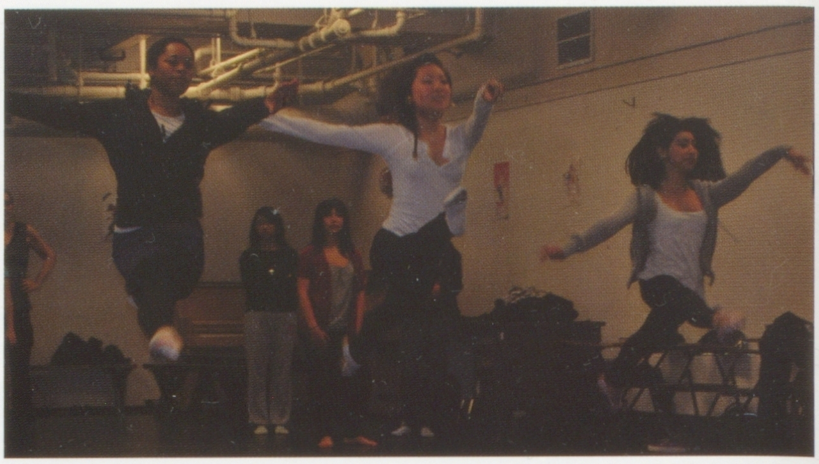
Art and Dance by Casey Thiering & Sam Embry

Linda Lee, and Helena Gagnon, '12, practice a ballet as part of a routine created by one of the students. Gagnon states, "I enjoy learning new dances because it's fun and I like to see what other students have created."

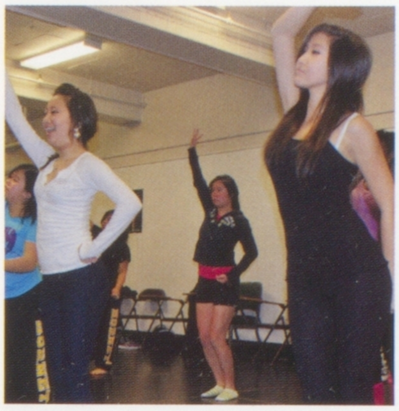
Grace Wood, '11, Linda Lee, '12, and Vanelly Trejo, '14, perform a ballet leap for the class as an example of the dance they will perform later in the year. To preform well in a group, dancers must have an understanding that all movements have to be accurate and synchronized.



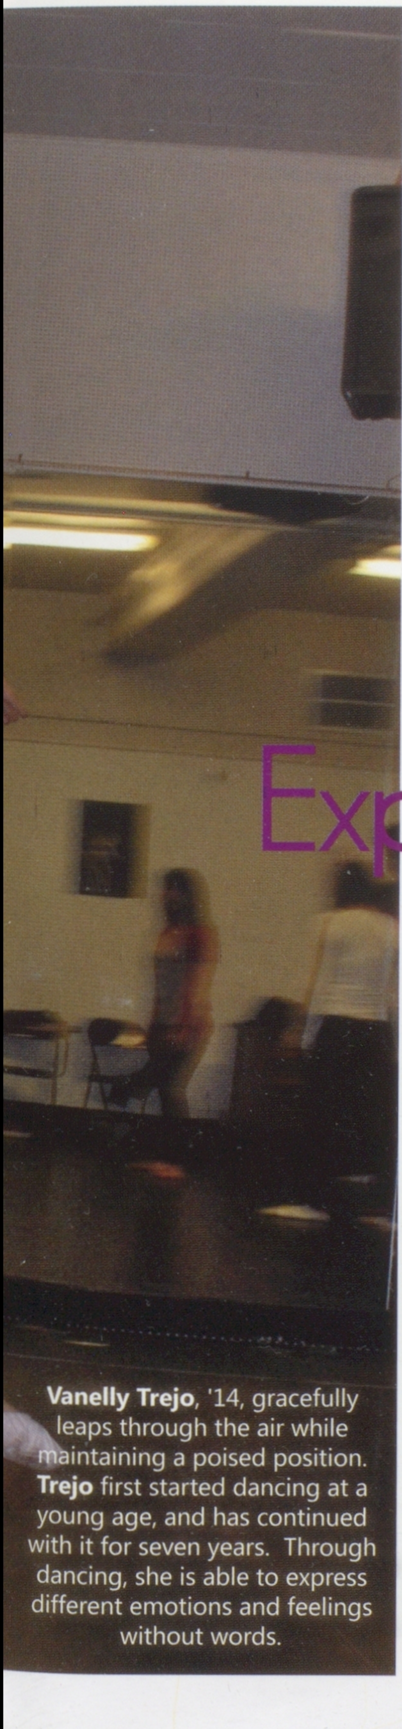
Anand Enkhtur, '12, sharpens her drawing skills by practicing shading. The value scale helps her to determine the correct shade that would contrast well with other colors.

Bramstedt, K

Michelle Nam, '11, Linda Lee, '12, Katherine Chiang,'12, and Sandra Tuya and Sandra Damvadarjaa, '13, follow through a dance routine with the rest of the class.



Helena Gagnon, '12, strikes a pose during a practice routine. Maintaining body position is extremely important when being a forward dancer because the dancers behind have to follow every movement.



Vanelly Trejo, '14, gracefully leaps through the air while maintaining a poised position. Trejo first started dancing at a young age, and has continued with it for seven years. Through dancing, she is able to express different emotions and feelings without words.

1) Creating a unique drawing, Thomas Rawl, '14, sketches a picture using his graphite pencil. "The contrast between the black and white makes the everything stand out," explains Rawl.
2) Ms. Bramstead's Art One students practice perspective sketching, where they attempt to capture the depth of the hallway in two dimensions.
3) Ernest Gardner, '13, concentrates on his sketches while listening to his iPod. "The flow of music helps me create," states Gardner.

Express Yourself

Art and Dance

Art and Dance are two electives offered that promote creativity and self expression. Every student has the privilege to participate in these classes and allow emotions to flow freely through expressionistic mediums. Dance is taught by Ms. Gill, which is an energetic and active class that teaches the students to dance in synchronized and complex movements. Music is played in the background so the students can dance to the rhythm of the beat. Towards the end of the year the class preforms in the Unity Talent Show with a choreographed routine. The Art classes display inspiring talent that the students have. Art students are able to use different tools for painting and drawing such as pastels, water colors, colored pencils and graphite. Every year, students paint new murals around the school for the following years to enjoy. and admire as they walk around campus.

Describe your experience in Autoshop.

"I've been in autoshop for about a year and I love the fact that I can use my hands to fix man's creation. Although working on cars has become something I really enjoy, I hope to have a career in the Marine Corps. If nothing else, I'll still continue to work on cars as I get older. Autoshop is really interesting but the hardest part would have to be making Mr. Potter completely happy. If I'm ever upset, Autoshop can really take a load off. When I'm working under the hood, I usually just forget any troubling things that take over my mind."

Jorge Valencia, '13, dedicates his time to inspect the plugs on an old motor. It is always important to make sure that all the motor cables are adjusted and set in properly so the motor does not blow out when it is turned on. "Autoshop has been a chill escape for me, and it's also come really easy for me. I plan to have a career in the automotive industry and most likely become a mechanic sometime in the future," says Valencia.

Allan Ray Villanueva, and Stephen Yang, '12, prepare to dismantle the car to get a clearer view of the hood. "Taking apart pieces of the car is really fun. You see everything in a new and more technical way," Yang explains.

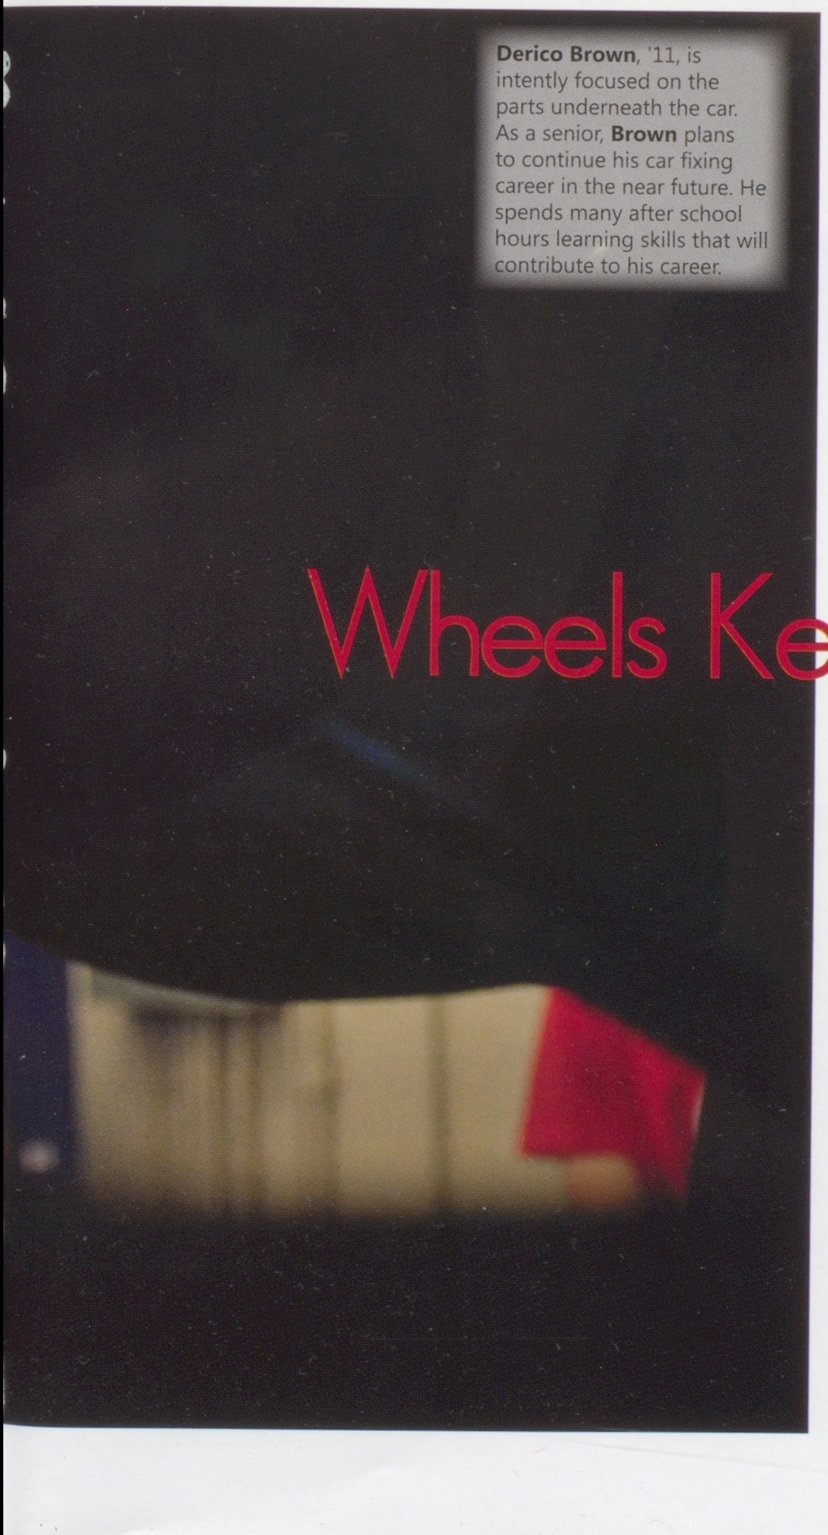
1) Susan Li, '11, screws off the license plate before continuing to take the rest of the car apart. Screwing off the plate is an important step before examining the car because the license plate could create a dangerous working environment for the students when working underneath cars and it adds more useless weight to the car when trying to prop it up.

2) The AHS Autoshop class is filled with many cars that have been donated by generous people. The students are taught to take them apart fully and put them back together in working order. While some cars may look a bit rusty or old, they all have a full working engine in them.

3) Ethan Hobbs, '13, carefully checks the balance of the car while Lori Nguyen, '11, uses a car lift to keep raising the car and adjusting it to the desired level. If a car is not balanced when working, the alignment can become off

Autoshop by Veronica Hall

1) Robert Cuthbertson,'13, checks the oil and water before running the motor to make sure the car is ready to run. Cuthbertson plans to be in autoshop all four years of high school. 2) Jesse Garcia, '13, uses a flashlight to inspect the pipes and underwiring of the car to make sure everything is put in the right spot. 3) Jack Zhu, '12, uses his left hand to get a better look at the muffler and how it is running. The muffler is necessary to reduce the intake and exhaust noise from the pumps of the car.



Derico Brown, '11, is intently focused on the parts underneath the car. As a senior, Brown plans to continue his car fixing career in the near future. He spends many after school hours learning skills that will contribute to his career.

Derico Brown, '11, and Jorge Valencia, '13, learn about the car engine while taking it out and getting instructions from their instructor, Mr.Potter. When taking out the engine, it is suspended by chains and the students must learn how to put back all the correct tubes into the car. Then, in order to check and make sure that the engine is running and put in right, the car is turned on and revved up.

Wheels Keep On Turning

Autoshop

Autoshop is a hands on elective that specializes in learning all about cars and how to fix them. Cars are donated to the class so students can learn how to install engines, change tires, and learn about all the parts. They learn how to use different tools such as screwdrivers and wrenches. Autoshop class members learn new lessons every day. A majority of students who choose to take this class are young men and women considering a career in mechanics. Others just want to learn a new skill or know how to fix a car. Autoshop provides an intense and eye opening experience that will give anyone who takes the class a lesson in teamwork, taking charge and doing tasks on one's own.

What is your most enjoyable memory from jazz band?

"Music is a unique way to express myself. Whether I'm playing the guitar or the piano, I can convey musical ideas that are complex and still approachable."
-Tyler Parsons, '11

"My favorite part about jazz band is Chris Maier's solos. I play saxaphone, and I really enjoy this instrument because of it's versatility. I have been playing since sixth grade and the cowbell is my second instrument."
-Sam Uyeno, '11

In band, high school students get an opportunity to learn and practice music in school. There is a lot of talent in the band, and it is displayed in talent's shows throughout the year. Xylophone is an important and unique part of the band. It also gives the band a variety of sounds to work with.

Cameron Beene, '13, is a part of the percussion section. "Playing drums in the band is fun because the music is easy to feel and I've learned a lot about music in this class."

The trombone is a musical instrument in the brass family. Like all brass instruments, sound is produced when the player's vibrating lips cause the air column inside the instrument to vibrate, giving it a unique, full sound. Michael Romero is adept at playing the trombone and is part of OYO, or Oakland Youth Orchestra, outside of school where he performs using the trombone .

The brass the section shows off their skills by playing their instruments. Trombones, trumpets and saxophones complete the brass section, and the sounds of each of them combine to make a full, unique sound. There are several factors involved in producing different pitches on a brass instrument. One factor is alteration of the player's lip tension, and another is air flow, and students learn to master both methods.

Band by Casey Thiering & Stephen Rhodes

"Through Jazz Band, I've been exposed to incredible Jazz musicians such as Fredie Hubbard, Miles Davis, Stan Getz, Herbie Hancock,and many others. I have come to appreciate their contributions."
-Drayson Ngiraingas, '13

"There was one day when a piece was missing from the drum set, and when we received the new piece, my drum set was finally complete."
-Madison Willcox, '14

Just like an orchestra, the AHS Band plays with precision and perfection. All of the students in a section have patience when the other sections are achieving a perfect sound. Levi Culverhouse, '12, is a trombone player. "It's amazing to play with the entire band because everyone loves their instrument and it puts feeling into the music we create."

The Rhythm of the Beat

Band

Many students who attend our school are gifted with musical talents. From strings to percussion, and brass to horns, students who play a variety of instruments can audition for the exciting array of musical programs. Students use their musical intelligence to practice and play together in synchronization. Adanced students have the opportunity to go out and perform exciting shows for the school and community. "The best part about being in Jazz Band is all of the different musicians I get to play with. I've also learned new things in the three years I have taken this class, and being able to play piano for one period at school is awesome," reflects Chris Maier, '12

Art Yee, '11, plays his string bass in symphonic band. Art takes three music classes at school; jazz band, symphonic band, and guitar class. "Music is like a remedy, different types of music we listen to evoke various emotions," contemplates Yee

James Knight, '13, and Kareem Badr, '13, play in the percussion section of the band. They work hard to keep the rest of the band on time, it's an easy job but takes patience.

What are your thoughts about this class?

"The class is really helpful because some day most people will have a kid. I'm learning how to be responsible for children. It's a lot of work but it pays off. Knowledge is better than cluelessness."
-Sody Enkhbayar, '11

"Although I have no interest in a career related to children, I have learned useful information that will hopefully help me understand my own child if I have one."
-Jamie Banks, '11

"Child Developement is a fun class. I never realized a child could be so much work. The class is great and very informative. "
-Marlas Wilson Foster, '11

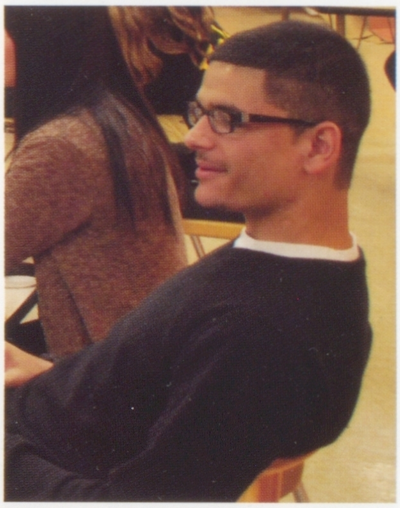
Janie Tran, '11, looks at a diagram posted on the wall behind her. "I took this class second semester and I like it a lot. It's very educational," says Tran.

Gianna Ratto, '12, discusses the class with her partner. "This is my first year in Child Developement. I thought we were going to have kids to play with this year but when I found that wasn't the case, I became dissapointed," says Ratto

Thuy Tran, '12, listens to Ms. Lewis as she explains the upcoming assignment to the class. "We go to the computer lab to look up information for projects. We have an abundance of recources available to us for researching about child developement," says Tran.

Students listen to Ms. Lewis explain the daily schedule for the day. "We learn something every day in class. I might actually retain some of this information when I grow up and have kids," says Nathan Hidalgo, '11.

Ms. Lewis wishes her students still had the opportunity to work with young children. "This is the first year I haven't had children in the class. The class is not the same without the joyful, spirited children. I now teach the psychological developement of children and how they grow up," says Lewis.



Randy Chahine, '11, gets out his folder for class and gets ready to work. "It's a very informational class. I never knew I could learn so much about the growth of children and how they act," says Chahine.

Understanding Young Minds

Developmental Psychology of Children

In past years, toddlers from the local preschool were looked after and cared for by the students in the class but this year it has not been possible for students to interact with the kids anymore. Current students instead learn about the process of child development. The class is beneficial because it teaches students to care for young children and learn about the responsibilites that come with child rearing. In addition, the class helps students become more prepared for the future, when they might someday be parents. "The developement of a child is very interesting and not everybody knows how they grow up or how they behave. It's a rather surprising class," notes Ms. Lewis.

Zac Goldstein, '12

A dominant presence on stage

Zac Goldstein has been acting for almost a decade. He plays Mr. De Pina, the comic relief, in the play You Can't Take It With You. His character is a fireworks enthusiast. During You Can't Take It With You, his favorite scene is when the two main characters are quarreling about their clashing cultures. Goldstein's character constructs fireworks which accidently ignite. It is a hiliarious part of the play and the audience enjoys a good laugh.

Andrew Altomare, '11, Troy Wise, '12, and Clare Forbes, '11, act in a scene from the play You Cant Take It With You. As a first year Drama Three student, Wise enjoys the responsibility of being in a play. "It's a great privilege to be in this production."

1) Alec Mathieson, '11, takes the role of the eccentric Martin Vanderhof in You Can't Take It With You. The character enjoys a daily helping of tomatoes while on stage. He also enjoys collecting stamps, tending to his snakes, and playing darts without the ability to aim.

2) During one of the scenes Bianca Decock, '12, begins playing a game called "Forget Me Not" with fellow actors. To play the game, actors write down the first association that comes to mind when a word is said.

Nathan Brown, '11, and Bianca Dekock,'12, play Mr. and Mrs. Kirby in the preformance You Cant Take It With You. In this scene they are preparing to leave the Sycamores'. The Sycamores portray a down to earth family, while the Kirbys are pompous and conservative.

In full costume, Nikita Burshteyn, '11, is channelling the presence of Boris Kolenkhov. "I like getting dressed up and performing my part in the play. It truly brings out the character," notes Burshteyn.

Alec Mathieson, '11, and Emily Kirschenheuter, '11, enjoy their last year in drama as the two leads in this production. "I'm going to miss Drama, and performing in plays. Whether it's the school play or just little skits in class," says Kirschenheuter.

Mi-Anne Chan, '12, Alec Mathieson, '11, Troy Wise, '12, and Andrew Altomare, '11, sit around the family table and discuss the conflict between the characters. "This is my first year in drama 3 and at first I was rather nervous, but then once my first scene came up, I got the hang of things," says Wise.

Lights, Camera, Action!

Drama

The Drama department puts on a number of productions during the school year including the fall play, You Can't Take It With You, Urinetown: The Musical and the One Acts. In addition, Drama One and Two produce shows for fellow students. Drama Three, the advanced acting class, takes place during 6th period, but also requires countless hours after school. The students in the class rehearse for up to four hours outside of school each weekday and on the weekends. During 6th period, the students have permission to do whatever they choose pertaining to drama. Students can rehearse their lines, review blocking, and practice improv. ''Acting is discovering who you are by pretending to be someone else," Mackenzie Cala, '14.

What is your most memorable moment from choir?

"My favorite memory is practicing our vocals with each other and when Mr. Randall makes funny noises and messes around with the piano."
-Gitte Schirrmacher, '14

"This year in choir we went to Boston for a concert. The trip improved my friendship with other members of Choir."
-Hannah Paulus, '13

Rachel Zenobia, Anastasia Koutoulakis, and Christina McKinley, '13, are returning for their second year of choir at AHS. They decided to return to choir because they enjoy singing and made many new friends last year. All three girls have a passion for music and appreciate the friendly environment in the classroom. Zenobia, Koutoulakis and McKinley were excited to preform in the winter concert this year and hope they will get to perform next year. Their favorite part about the concert was getting to dress up and present the skills they developed in front of the entire school. Another memorable event was when the class threw a surprise birthday party for a fellow choir member.

Mr. Randall enjoys improving his student's vocal capabilities and inspiring students to pursue their passion for singing. "Choir has taught me a lot about how to read and write music. It is a fun class and Mr. Randall is a good teacher," comments Angeline DiDonato, '12.

1) Caitlin Shener, '14, looks over the sheet music, noting the pronunciations of the words and the rhythm of the beat. "Choir is one of my favorite classes. I decided to take Choir this year because I enjoy singing. This class is like a family and all of us in Choir enjoy coming to class each day," exclaims Shener.

2) Christina McKinley, '13, and Faith O'Mara, '12, use a pencil to note specific parts the sheet music. "Choir is one of my favorite classes, it's been a really good experience in that class with Mr. Randall, I've made a lot of friends ."

1) Sisters Sheree Smith, '11, and Christina Smith, '12, are both valuable and experienced members in choir. Sheree has been in choir for 3 years and is overjoyed about being able to use her talent at school. Christina enjoys learning to perform on stage with her sister. Both of them have made new friends this year and had several interesting moments in choir. "One day a girl got stung by a bee," Sheree states.

2) Suzanne Eggert, '14, began taking singing lessons two years ago. Eggert decided to join Choir because of her passion for singing and wanting to improve her vocal skills. When she has a bad morning, going to Choir brightens her day. Eggert explains that Choir is a family where they work together as one. "Every day we warm up before we sing. One time I didn't warm up and I lost my voice for a day."

"The most memorable moment was when we performed True Colors in the Winter Assembly instead of singing White Christmas."
-Rosalee Brown, '12

"When I first began choir, I couldn't sing. After many practices and encouragement from my fellow choir members, my voice improved."
-Yaldah Sultan, '11

Harmonizing Hornets

Choir

Choir is both an opportunity for singers to express themselves in song as well as to bond with fellow students. The choir members enjoy performing on stage and practicing their vocals daily. At AHS, students sing in unison and on pitch thanks to their regular practice schedule. They show their skills to the student body in many performances including homecoming and the winter musical assembly. "Many choir participants also want to pursue a career in singing and choir offers professional preparation. Being in choir helps me improve my singing and meet many new people. Mr. Randall is a great teacher and has improved my singing skills," affirms Dayjame Levington, '13.

Katherine Wantanabe, '12, is returning for her third year of choir. "There are many new members joining Choir this year and she will be returning next year," Wantanabe states.

Newcomer Sarah Nunn, '14, discovered that choir is her favorite class. This year, Nunn improved her vocals and made several new friendships.

What is your favorite part about computer class?

"You get to go on the internet sometimes. It's an easy A but you have to do a lot of work that has to be done by a deadline."
-Yael Tapia, '13

"The powerpoints are the most fun. I learned a lot form this class that I didn't know before, such as making resumes on Microsoft Word."
-Ashley Garber, '14

"There's no homework and you get to learn about computers. My favortie thing to do are presentations."
- Zubair Mohmand, '12

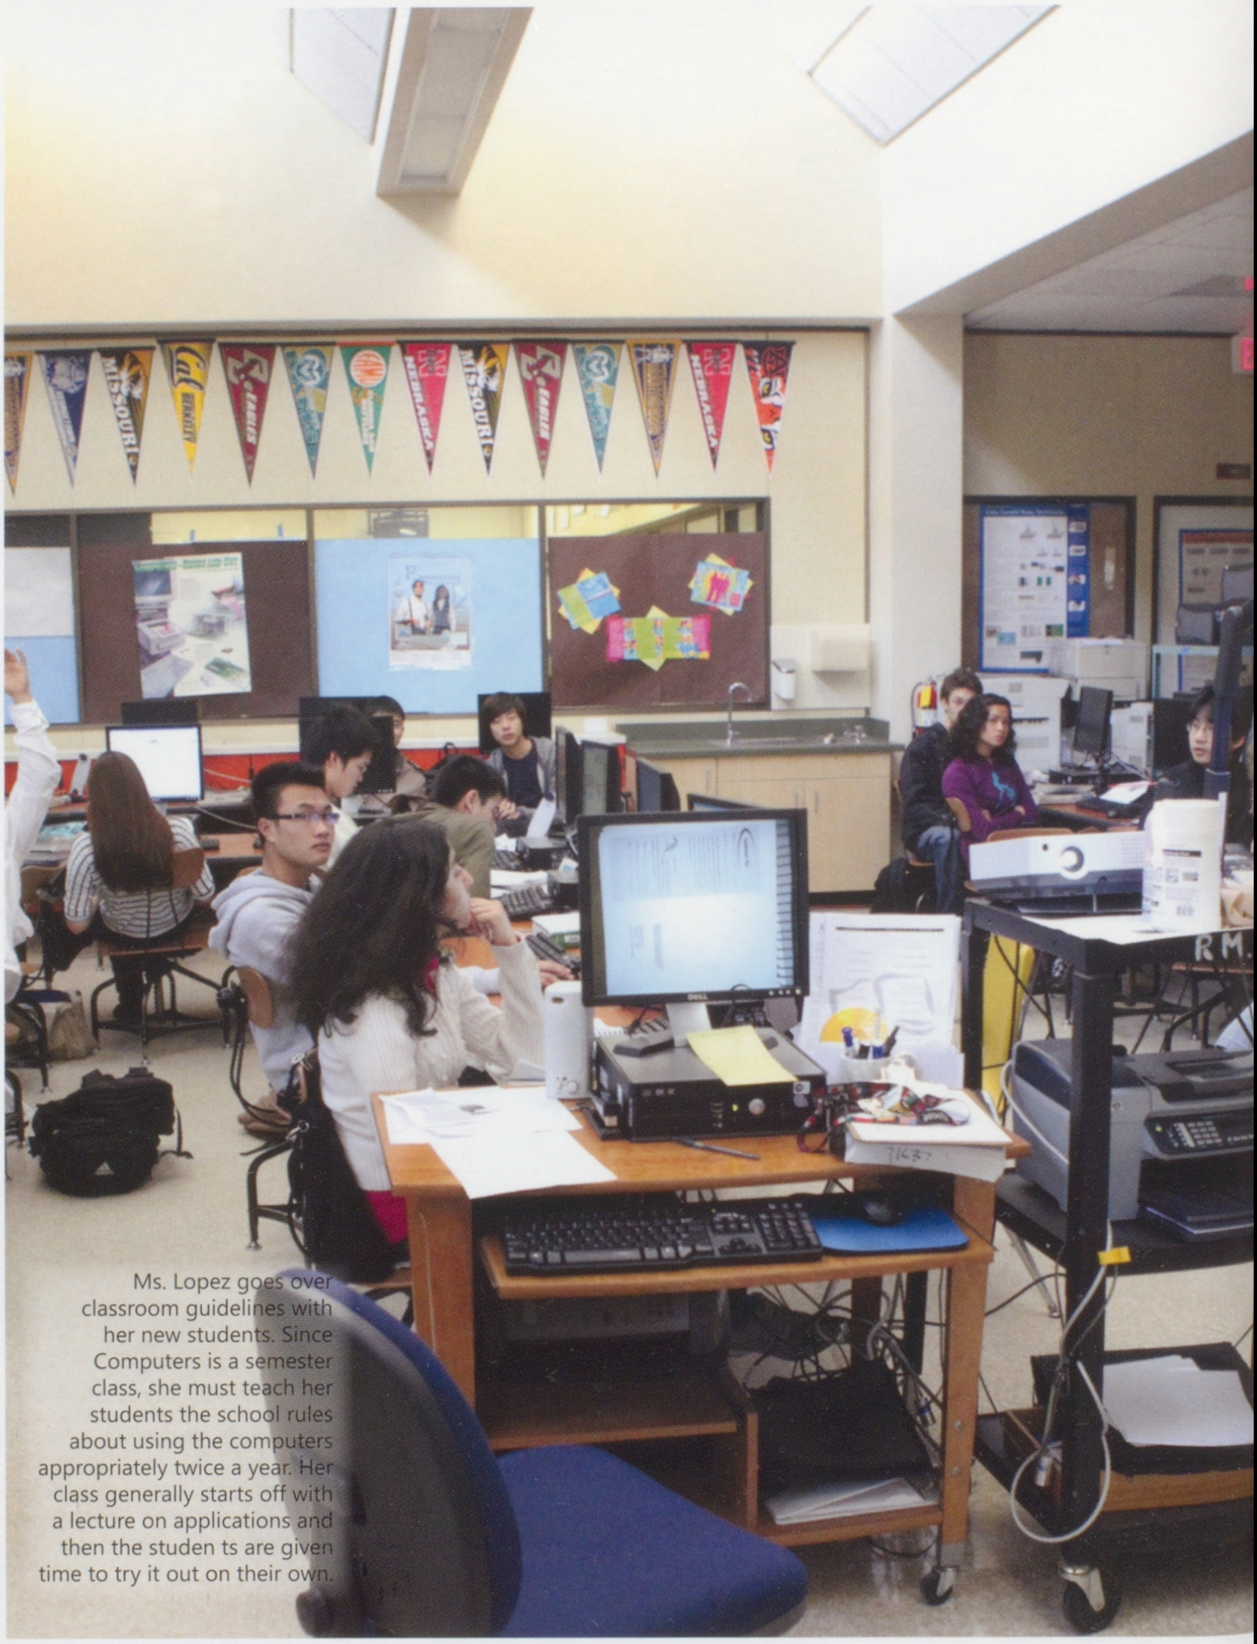
Computers by Alvin Lee & Angelica Parodi

Aumen Holliday, '13, and Anh Nguyen, '13, are working together on a Microsoft Word document. Holliday especially enjoys the class. "It makes it easier to work on the computer and I learned how to modify documents."

Avery Figari, '13, and Ryan Flynn, '14, are working on an instructional PowerPoint that they will later present to the class. PowerPoints are a major part of Computer class and students are taught how to create them efficiently and creatively.



Ms. Lopez goes over classroom guidelines with her new students. Since Computers is a semester class, she must teach her students the school rules about using the computers appropriately twice a year. Her class generally starts off with a lecture on applications and then the studen ts are given time to try it out on their own.

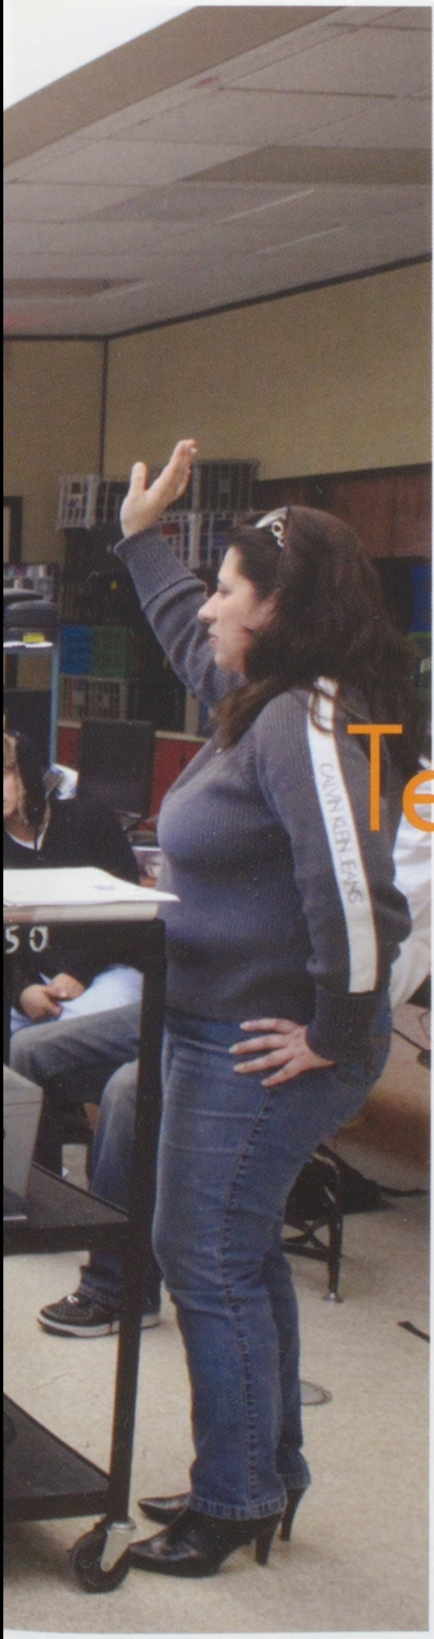
1) Nathaniel Northen, '12, Thomas Wei, '13, and Nayoung Chang, '13, are doing final checks on their documents to ensure that they are free of errors. Students are taught to use keyboard shortcuts to make revising documents a smoother process.
2) Janet Acquistapace, the aide for Mr.Bunker, helps guide Maddy Pearce, '13, on the computer, working on her reading and writing skills as well as her typing.

Phuong Huynh, '12, is working on one of the various projects in the class. Huynh is normally on the computer quite frequently and enjoys learning how they work. He likes using Microsoft Office and his favorite project so far was creating a PowerPoint about his fellow classmates.



Technically Savvy

Computer Class

Computer class teaches students about marketing skills and helps them develop job skills. Ms. Lopez teaches her students technology standards that are required for jobs today. Also, students learn how to troubleshoot their own computers so they can fix them instead of relying on computer technicians. IC3, a certification program that is designed to teach the digital literacy skills associated with basic computer and Internet use is taught to all students. The class is designed to allow students to rely on themselves to solve their problems which is vital in the modern day. All the computers in the lab are maintained meticulously by Ms. Lopez and she emphasizes the importance of all students following the required school computer rules.

Summer Thibodeaux, '11, and Joey Colton, '11, are both Tech aides during fourth period. Thibodeaux and Colton enjoy working together and helping Ms. Lopez's students when they are lost. Their duties also include helping other teachers with their technological problems.

What is your favorite thing about art?

"My favorite thing we have done so far is when we take a magazine strip of scenery, put it in the middle of the paper, and draw the rest using our imagination. Art relaxes me and gives me a break from school. It lets me express myself without words. Sometimes I sit by the lagoon and draw while listening to my iPod. I want to be an architect when I am older and I plan to take art throughout high school and into college."

Angelica Ambrosini, '12, and Isabella Lino, '12, both work on different designs to put on this years playbill for "Urinetown." In multimedia art, there are students that learn a variety of technological skills. "I really enjoyed learning how to use Photoshop because I always thought it was a hard program to use and now that I understand it, I absolutely love the program. It is amazing," explains Joann Catungal, '14.

Alex Elsibai, '13, diligently works on a design he is drawing up for Multi-Media Art." I love Multimedia Art, its a great class to learn about computer skills and computer programs," says Elsibai.

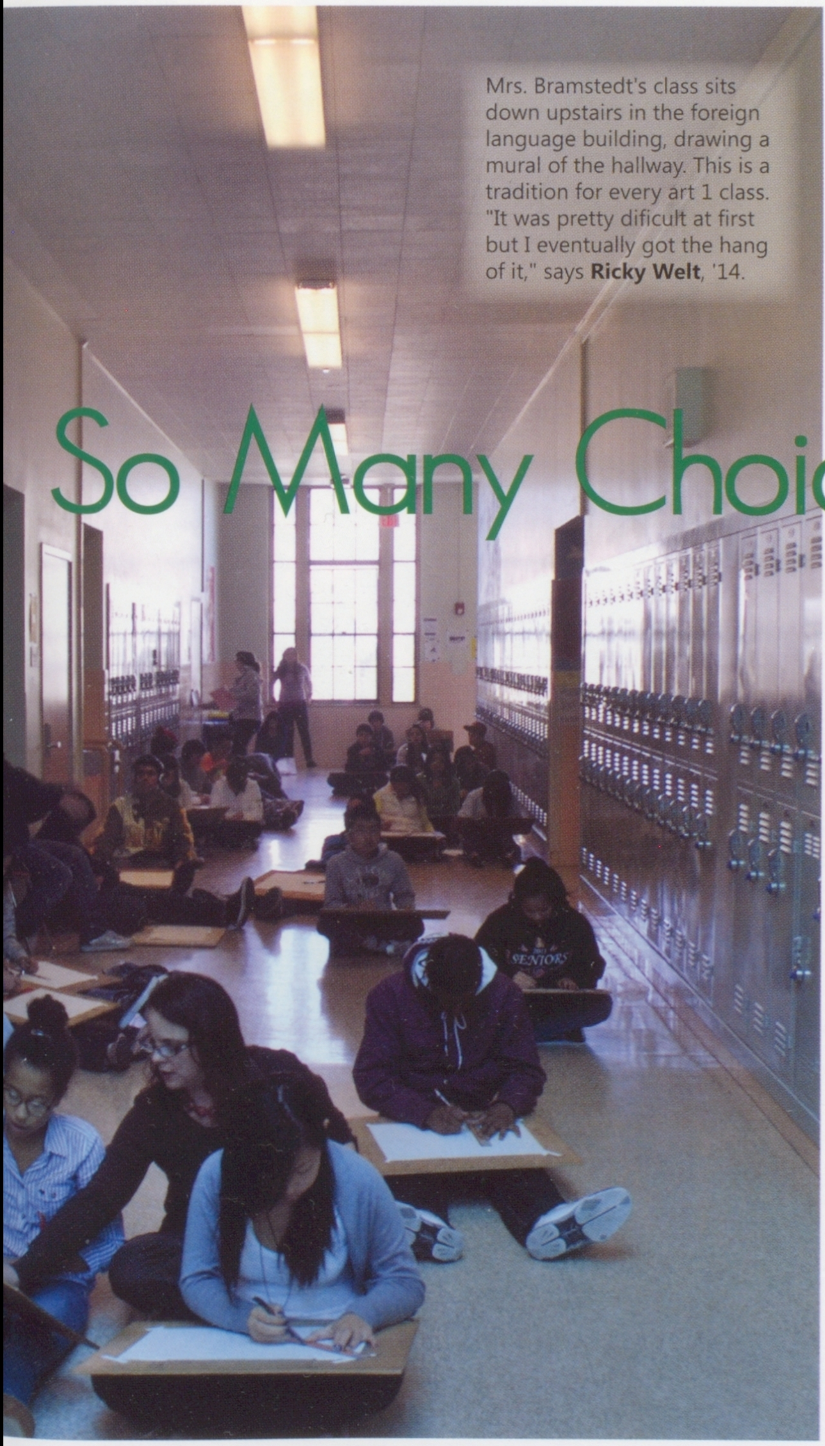
Michael McMillan, '12, concentrates hard to focus on his drawing. "Art brings out the character in me and it's fun to see how good I actually am," says McMillan.

Blair Austin, '12, takes his time while drawing so that he does not make a mistake. "I love listening to music because it brings out the best in me. I concentrate hard on my drawings when I'm in the zone," says Austin.

Electives by Kevin Kinney and Katie Allan

Harshal Patanker, '14, and other students in multimedia art class work on designing hornets. "I like this class because it incorporates art with working on the computer so you can be creative and do a lot of different things. It has really helped me because I learned how to use special programs. I am very happy that I signed up for this class, especially since we get to listen to are iPods while we work," says Patanker.

Thomas Rall, '14, takes his time trying not to make a mistake. Dedication and determination is key when making a perfect drawing. "Drawing portraits can be challenging. This is my first year in art and I like it a lot. I look forward to drawing and creating other projects throughout the year."



Mrs. Bramstedt's class sits down upstairs in the foreign language building, drawing a mural of the hallway. This is a tradition for every art 1 class. "It was pretty dificult at first but I eventually got the hang of it," says Ricky Welt, '14.

Kon Hang Lam, '12, does work on the computer as an aid in the library. "I like being an aid for Ms. Romer and the library staff because I enjoy working in there and reading It is perfect," says Lam. Library Aid's work in the media center filing papers, putting away books and doing work on the computer.

So Many Choices, So Little Time

Electives

There are many things students may not know about Multimedia Art. Yes it is a class that has to do with a lot of software and computers, but sometimes students learn the industry standards and if they're interested they may move on to the graphics field. They might end up advertising, doing graphic designs or animation. Also students design the school's agenda, menu designs for restaurants, and outside work such as designing logos for the community. Every year gets easier for me to teach this subject. As technology improves students are becoming more and more familiar with it that they don't really need my guidance with it. It's just not a problem anymore," says Ms. Szeto.

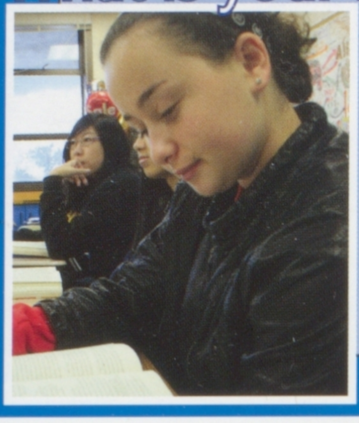
What is your most memorable moment from english?



"Mr. Martin makes class more enjoyable. He makes us laugh all the time. I can't wait for fourth period!"
-Leaka Vaysberg, '14

"Ms. Baranyi's class is really fun and we do a lot of writing. Usually we do writting assesments or we read in groups and discuss the current book."
-Colin Brady,' 13

Darnel Rose,'14, takes interest in the discussion during Ms.Rudd's English 4th period class. "She likes it when her students have their books open to the right page, and I'm right in front," Rose explains.

Hasib Alocoz,'14, reads and analyzes an excerpt from the epic poem The Odyssey in his literature book.

Michael Bui and Brandon Ramos,'14, participate in a discussion about Homer's famous poem, The Odyssey. Freshman EXP English usually consists of reading many novels throughout the year. "Annotating is a big part of English class." Bui explains, "we never put down a book." Ramos believes that his English class changes his perspective on in-class essays, oral discussions and vocabulary."

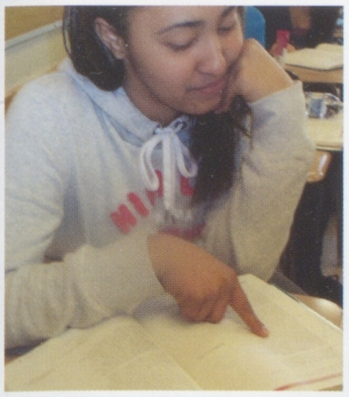
English by Grace Friedman & Katie Allan



"Ms.Rudd is very interesting and I learn a lot about grammar and literature. I have a lot of friends in this class so I really enjoy coming."
-Deja Johnson, '14

"In Mr. Teixeria's EXP English class, we annotate daily in class and for homework. Currently we're reading Great Expectations by Charles Dickens and having to annotate is a big part of our grade."
-Rachelle Carrier, '14

Read Between the Lines

English

"English helps develop critical thinking skills that you need for everyday life. It's vital to have communication skills because whatever job you have, you'll need to use them to be successful," says Mr. Teixeira.
The English Department at AHS offers students the opportunity to develop their skills in reading, writing, speaking and listening. Students use synthesis and analysis to get a complete understanding of literature. English classes are divided into various levels including Regular, EXP, AP and Academy. Teachers create educational assignments to help students reach their full potential as writers, thinkers, and scholars. Students report that English classes at AHS prepare them to be well rounded communicators.

Emmett Kaake, Emerald Chan and Kaleigh Allen,'14, all listen to Mr. Martin as he gives an interesting speach about "Life as We Know It." Kaake raves about his English teacher and how much he enjoys coming into his class. "Unlike some other English classes, Martin goes at an easy pace. I don't mind sitting down and getting to work," Kaake explains.

Sara Bagahdi,'13, attentively sits and listens to Ms. Baranyi in her 4th period class. After a class discussion, they prepare to write in their journals about the current topic. "I love the class, even when we get too loud," Bagahdi says.

Ms. Piazza's students agree that her funny attitude and warm personality make her an amazing teacher.

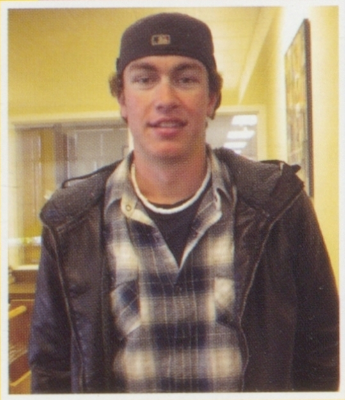
Do you have any study tips for a foreign language student?



"Practice vocabulary and catch phrases every chance you get, even when you're with your friends."
-Eli Nemzer, '11

"I make flash cards with my dad and before a test we review the new vocabulary."
-Vikram Prasad, '12

"In French we use CD tutors that have flashcards, video questions, and fill in the blanks. We also use class zone quizzes to study for major tests."
-Melanie Nguyen, '12

Foreign Language by Kevin Kinney & Erica Borowski

Amelia Caps, Holly Staten, Juliet Leonard, and Eleanna Vafeiadou, '13, work together in a group to finish their task of classroom exercises. The girls are currently learning about french etiquette and manners. Leonard says, "Madame Labarre is a great teacher and working in small groups helps us learn more because everyone contributes to the assignment."

1) Jeff Day, Josh Yuen, Jay Moody, and Dave Zheng, '11, started off with subtle singing, but escaladed into a dramatic soap opera. "It was a fun experience to perform with some of my friends on stage," says Day.

2) Polly Fong, '14, works intently on her french crossword puzzle of "Les Corps" meaning "The body." Fong says, "Crosswords are fun because it's a good way of helping me remember vocabulary."

3) Maddy Christ, and Derek Snediker, '13, use their french book as resource to complete their worksheet. "French is a unique language, and one day I want to become fluent," says Snediker.

Kelsey McKeon, Danny Radding, Megan Yee, Corey Ching, Frankie Willcox, and Boyang Gai, '12, form a Salsa group called "Tu Angelito." The group began with a skit and suddenly broke into an exotic Latin dance routine. The dancers' enthusiasm encouraged the crowd to cheer and sing along.

Students walk around the classroom to gather materials and equipment to do a class project. "It's fun because we create a lot of posters that express Spanish culture. I like coloring especially because it reminds me of my childhood," says Alex Wilson Leech, '13.

More Than Words

Foreign Language

Learning a foreign language gives students the opportunity to communicate with people from around the world. Hornets are privileged to have the chance to becoming fluent in other languages. "The best age to learn a foreign language is actually right at the beginning of Middle School because the development of the brain makes it possible to absorb new knowledge more quickly than usual," says French teacher Ms. Candace Gutleben. "French is not the easiest class but it's interesting to learn new words and phrases. I can use my knowledge of the language if I ever travel to Europe or I meet a foreigner," says Weston Tolbert, '13. AHS offers classes in Spanish and French from level one through five AP.

Isabel Tager, '13, began her performance with singing the song "Je Suis Ma Meuiller Copain." Tager surprised the audience with juggling and dancing.

As a finale of the Foreign Language talent show, it is a tradition for the ending act to collaborate with the other performers. This brings all of the students together to impress the audience one last time.

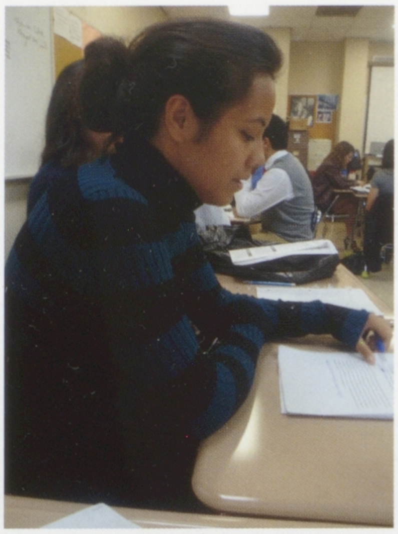
What is your favorite part about your history class?

"I really enjoy history class because of Mr. Gross. He uses different teaching techniques like incorporating activities outside of the textbook. Some days he likes to start class off by playing a song on his guitar and by the last verse the whole class is singing along. It is his teaching methods that help develop a more relaxed atmosphere in the classroom. In addition, Mr. Gross likes to reward his students for the hardwork they put in. On Fridays we watch movies about what we are currently studying and sometimes he'll walk around with treats while we are taking a test. Lastly, my favorite thing is when we do current events. This is a time at the beginning of class when Mr. Gross lets us have open dicussions about world events."

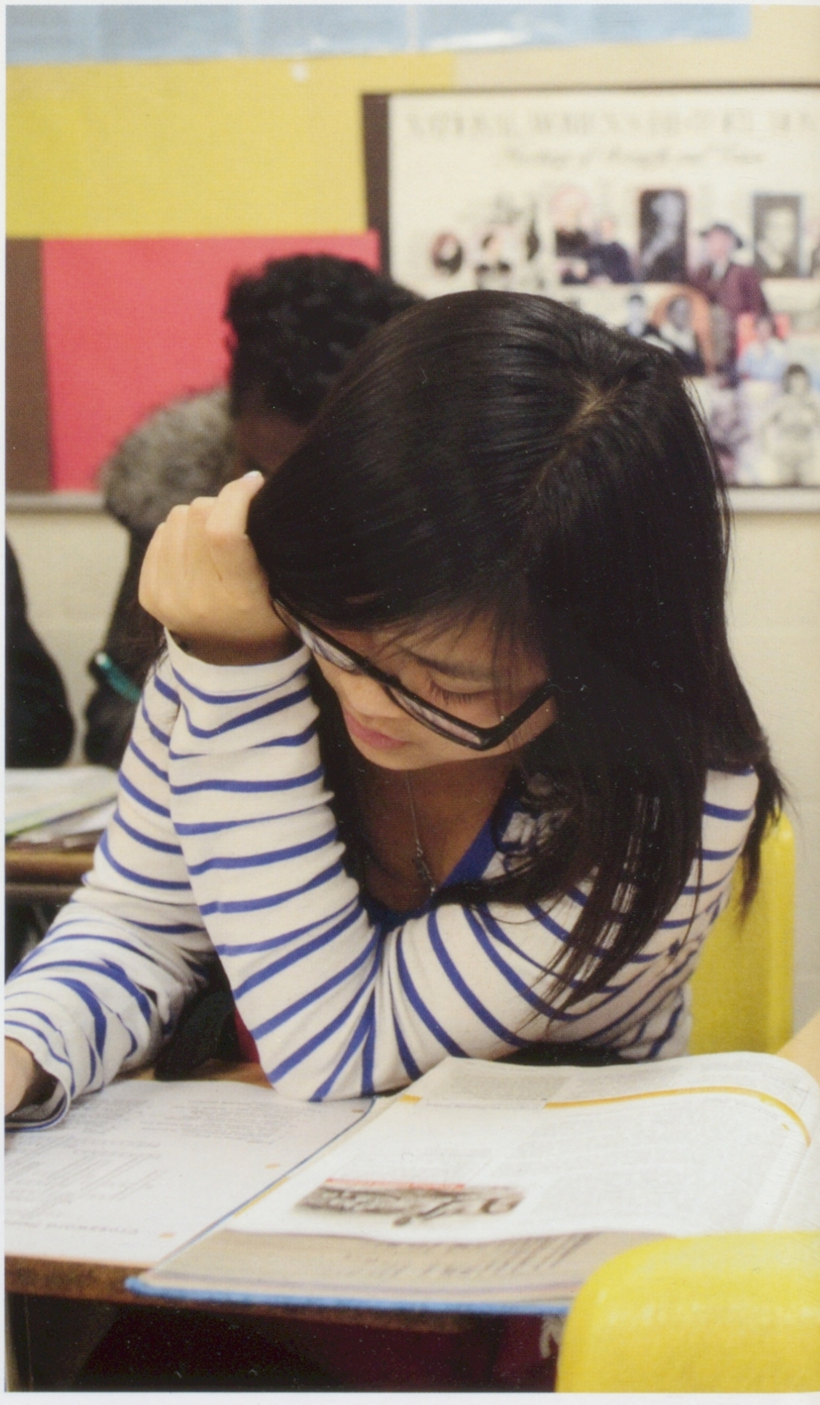
Francine Kolokihakaufisi Gross, '11, quietly takes notes during an in class debate in government class. Kolokihakaufisi Gross does not mind taking notes because at the end of the day she can look back and review important topics covered for upcoming tests.



Sandy Wu, '12, takes a minute to read a passage in her U.S. History book before taking notes. Currently the class is studying the beginning of World War I. Taking notes is a helpful way to remember key dates and names of important rulers.

1) Marvin Chen, '13, patiently waits for his internet browser to start up while in Mr. O'Malley's Modern World History class. "Right now in class our assignment is to create a brochure or newspaper set in the 1800'S. It's cool because it gives me a chance to use my computer and design skills. Even though the computers can be slow, I'm really glad we have them at all. Chen prefers history over English because learning about the past, present, and future fascinates him.

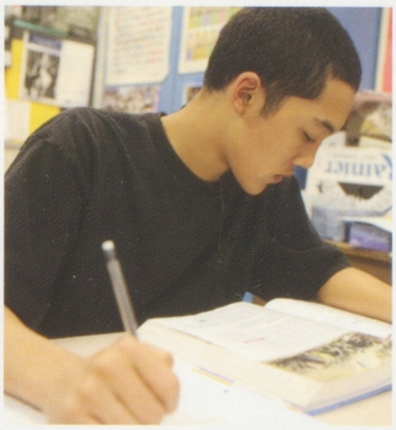
2) Modern World History student, Marlena Tatman, '13, works diligently on an assignment of coloring Queen Elizabeth I. Tatman likes the different activities in class because through music, films, and coloring, she finds learning more exciting and enjoyable.



History by Erica Borowski & Andrea Myovich

Carefully checking her work, Stephanie Lam, '12, learns about different empires in the late 1800's. History is one of her favorite subjects in school because it applies to everyone in the world and there is so much to discover. Having the class with several friends makes the learning environment more fun. Lam especially likes learning about the Renaissance, the age of rebirth.

Justin Huergas, '13, works diligently to complete an in-class assignment focusing on the Renaissance Era. Huergas enjoys being a part of Mr. Gross' History class because the students are rewarded for all their hard work. Huergas comments, "I really like the days when Mr. Gross starts off class by playing a song on his guitar and when he lets us listen to classical music on his record player while we work."



Mr. Manno walks in between the lines for the boys and girls doing his rigorous inspection on Puritan Day. On this day, the AP United States History classes all experience what life was like back in the puritan days where the tolerance level is extremely low and Mr. Manno does a good job every year showing just that.

Foreign Exchange students, Kira Meyer and Lorenz Rosenau, '12, listen attentively to the lecture in Mr. Ramirez's U.S. history class. Meyer comments: "So far, I have loved my experience at Alameda High. The people are really friendly and the classes are also nice, I especially like history because it is focusing on the same material we learned at my school back home in Germany."

Sophomores Charlene Cew, and Dereck Oyama, share a book while completing their crossword puzzle. Teacher Mr. Gross uses different strategies for students to learn history. Cew states, "I like crossword puzzles because they're challenging and in the end all the words connect to each other."

Past, Present, and Future

History

The history department gives students the chance to gain exposure to past and current events. Each year, students view documentaries, construct projects, and assemble maps centering around information about the past. Mock Congress give students the opportunity to focus on current issues, and learn about U.S. politics. The students form two groups, the House of Representatives and the Senate, which evaluate bills with topics about the environment, our economy, and modern technology. U.S. History teacher Mr. Gross comments, "The problems and issues we faced in the past are not too different from the ones we face today."

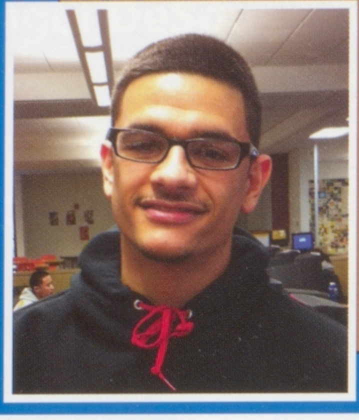
What is the best part about journalism?



"I enjoy interviewing people. It gives me the chance to get to know them a little better."
-Randy Chanine , '11

"I love the freedom of writing. It really helps me express myself. The class has many unique writers."
-Katie Mandell, '12

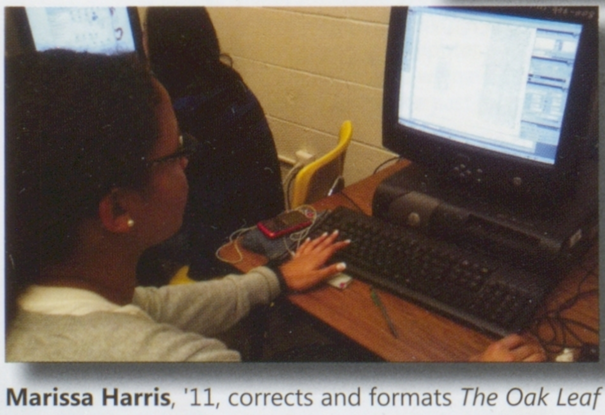
The students in Journalism often discuss in small groups about new story ideas. They try to think of new, original, and fun ideas so that the newspaper has a plethora of stories that students can read about.

Jasmine Ng, '11, looks over Alexandra Peto, '11. Ng is one of the photo editors of The Oak Leaf so it is her responsibility to make sure that pictures are provided for all of the stories. The pictures attract the readers' attention so they are very important.

There are many people involved in Journalism this year. With over 30 students, the newspaper brings a variety of stories to the students of AHS. Ms. Gregor is very organized when it comes to the school newspaper because she wants to present a spectacular newspaper that the students and faculty can enjoy. "I enjoy teaching Journalism because it attracts kids who are very curious and interested in helping out their community. I truly love working with all the kids. They're a lot of fun to be around," says Ms. Gregor.



Marissa Harris, '11, corrects and formats The Oak Leaf during class on a computer program.

Kaitlin Elkins, '13, and Monica Lee, '13, listen attentively to Ms. Gregor for instructions.

Journalism by Angelica Rivera & Rachelle Carrier

"My favorite thing about Journalism is Ms. Gregor. She is super nice and always supportive."
-Marissa Harris, '11

"I think that it is very important to keep the student body informed about what's going on around campus."
-Eli Nemzer, '11

Hot Off the Press

Journalism

Journalism produces The Oak Leaf, the school newspaper that is distributed every month. The paper lets students know about upcoming events and covers current events. The teacher, Mrs. Gregor, keeps the writers focused on assignments so readers get full coverage of affairs. The Oak Leaf includes sections like News, Opinion, Features, Buzz, and Sports. These sections keep the paper diverse and interesting to read. "Something everyone may not know about Journalism is that we have to do a 'paste-up', which is when we have to make the layout of the paper, and put everything in its proper place. It's a very long and tedious process, but after that, the paper is done and it's a great accomplishment because we were able to make all of our tight deadlines," asserts editor in chief, Alicia Fong, '11.

Editor in chief, Alicia Fong, '11, and Monica Lim, '11 are proud of the latest issue of The Oak Leaf. After making every deadline and dealing with many last minute decisions, they are proud that they were able to meet their final deadline. Lim says, "I think it's important to keep people updated, as well as to express opinions and ideas to students."

Journalists of The Oak Leaf take a break to smile for the camera while working on their articles.

A majority of the time in Journalism class is spent in the computer lab to type up and edit stories.

If you could describe your leadership class with one word, what would it be?

"Crazy! In leadership you basically become one big family and get to know everyone really well... maybe a little too well..."
-Winnie Chen, '12

"Fun. All the events and projects we do are really cool. I helped with the sophomore float building and I ended up dressing up as the Monopoly guy."
-Joe Ruck, '13

"Cool. A lot of the people in the class are really nice and always willing to help with new ideas. It's a really good experience."
-Peter Nguyen, '14

Leadership by Erica Borowski

Leadership students, Michelle Jacobson, Alexa Tom, Liana David, Danielle Oshiro and MaryKim Hoang, '11, show their customized powder-puff jerseys. The five girls agree that having leadership together definitely bonds people over time. "We are wearing red to show our senior pride," says Tom. Not only are the girls classmates and friends, but teammates as well.

Supporting the Junior class section of the homecoming assembly, Kiet Tran, '12, calmly holds a "CHEER" sign to stir up the crowd. This is Tran's first year in leadership and he enjoys the class. "I wish I joined leadership sooner. Although it is a lot of hard work, it pays off in the end because our efforts benefit the students and AHS. I hope people appreciate everything leadership has put forth this year. Despite the budget cuts, we still try to make events enjoyable for everyone," explains Tran.

LEADERSHIP

Alameda High School
Public Announcement Request Form 2010-2011

Kathryn Alexander, '12, diligently takes notes during the weekly leadership meetings held in the pit. "It helps me to take notes because when main events come up, I can review my notes and ideas. The meetings bring all our thoughts and ideas together and gives us an opportunity to learn about each other's job duties," explains Alexander.

New to leadership this year, Maria Sazo, '14, finds her weekly tasks to be quite rewarding. "I have a good time taking out the recycling and sorting through the CRV bins because I know it helps the environment," says Sazo.

Senior ASB President, Jamie Banks an be described as a hardworking and sponsible leader. Banks leads student government in planning events and ctivities. Through countless hours of anning and coordinating, she tries her absolute best to inspire and lead the tudent body to have a fantastic year.

CHEER

"Leadership can be stressful at times, but then I look back on the events and I remember how much fun I had helping out," says Kaitlyn Crooker, '13. Keeping a watchful eye on the crowd during the homecoming assembly, Crooker laughs at the class relay race. It is very important to make sure the students do not get too out of control and rowdy. Attending the assembly is a privilege, and leadership members have a responsibility to make sure the event runs smoothly.

Leading the Way

Leadership

Important aspects of volunteering include setting good examples and being a positive influence towards others. At AHS, the leadership team is made up of highly responsible and hardworking students. Even before the year begins, the team is constantly busy. During orientation, leadership members distribute books and schedules to the entire student body. Throughout the year there are a great deal of fund-raisers and events put on solely by leadership. Prom, spirit weeks, Back to School Night, Food Faire, and class bake sales are only a few of the functions organized by leadership. Without all of the tremendous effort from the leadership team, AHS would not have nearly as much spirit.

Victor Tran, '11, Megan Averitt, '11 Caroline Sherratt, '12, Drew Jones, '12, and Sam Kuttner, '13, gain muscles during orientation by distributing books to the entire student body. While students wait in a long and tedious line, the leadership members frantically race around in the book room to quickly give out the correct books to students. "Students get impatient and somewhat rude, but we just try our best!" exclaims Averitt.

How has DECA been thus far for you?

FEBRUAR
RTHWESTER

"I have been in Marketing for the past year. We operate the Hive and I like it because you can be directly involved in marketing through selling stuff."

Sally Sanchez, '11, Jenny Liang, '11 Joyce Cheung, '11 Thao Le. '11 Mark Gotuaco, '12, Corey Ching, '12, Justin Saco, 12', Chris Padilla, '11 and Andrew Courtland, '12 pose for a picture during DECA's Nor-Cal State conference where they compete with each other and gain leadership and buisness experience. Liang believes remarked, "Deca's Nor-Cal conference has prepared me to become an emerging leader of the future. Meeting judges, advisors, state officers, and other DECA members has really helped me expand my network, which is DECA's theme this year. I feel much more confident and motivated to enter the exciting and competitive world of business after my experience from DECA."

Jimmy Song, '11, Kevin Wang, '11, Chris Padilla, '11, and Justin Saco, '12, gather around and contribute to the decoration of the entryway to the Hive. Some probems arise due to the blue tape's adhesive not sticking to the brick. However, after trial and error, they finally got it done.

Amir Razavi, '12, believes that marketing has a opened a door for him in the entrepreneurship world as this is just the first step in his business administration career. Here he puts on his business face.

Quan Wu, '11, thinks it's "No big deal" to work in the Hive. One day, Wu hopes to own her own business. She'll be her own Queen Bee and have all her little hornet "minions" serving her and her colony.

Queenie Ng, '11, gets very enthusiastic about selling cookies for Back-to-School Night that will raise funds for Go-Fight-Win, a cause directed at raising funds for breast cancer research. This is Ng's,first year in DECA and she really enjoys the class and how relaxing it is but she is learning at the same time.

Kevin Wang, '11, takes out the pre-sorted cookie batter and sets them on the pan. Afterwards, the cookies go into the oven and are baked and sold to the hungry parents and students during Back-to-School Night.

Seniors Sally Sanchez, Chris Padilla, Anthony Ko, and Jenny Liang set up a table in front of the Alameda Theater and ask for donations to raise funds for breast cancer, and spread awareness after school. "I feel really good while raising money because I felt like I was getting involved in the community and I was making a difference and helping, says Sanchez.

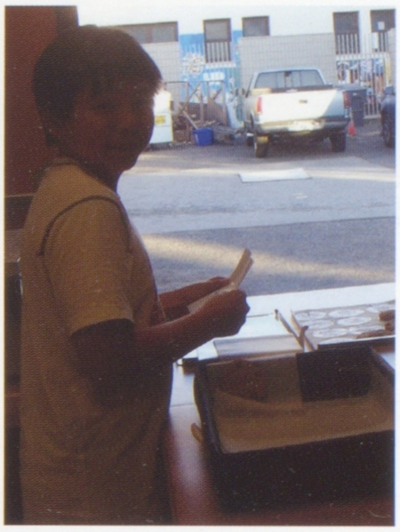
ARE YOU PASSIONATE?

Kenneth Ko, '14, enjoys DECA events such as selling cookies during Back-to-School Night. Ko joined DECA because his older brother told him that it was a good way to start being involved in marketing.



Marketing Class does a lot of fund raising to make money for their DECA Club to help send their club members to special conferences. The cookies are just one of the specialty foods that the club has to offer.

Let's Get Down to Business

Marketing

Marketing offers students the vital skills that are needed today. Some of those skills include learning about handling money or hosting conferences effectively. The marketing students learn business skills that can be easily applied to any job that they encounter. The students have to operate the Hive, where they sell a variety of snacks and drinks that the student body can purchase. The marketing students sell the items and keep an inventory of all the supplies they currently have and they deduct the costs of all the items and see whether or not they are making a profit. The students also attend two conferences where they represent the school and debate about a variety of topics.

What do you enjoy about math?

"I'm in HP Pre-Cal, and I like my teacher Mr. Lamb. He makes math fun and easy."
-Derek Snediker, '12

"Math can be applied to a lot of different facets in life."
-Declan Shener, '12

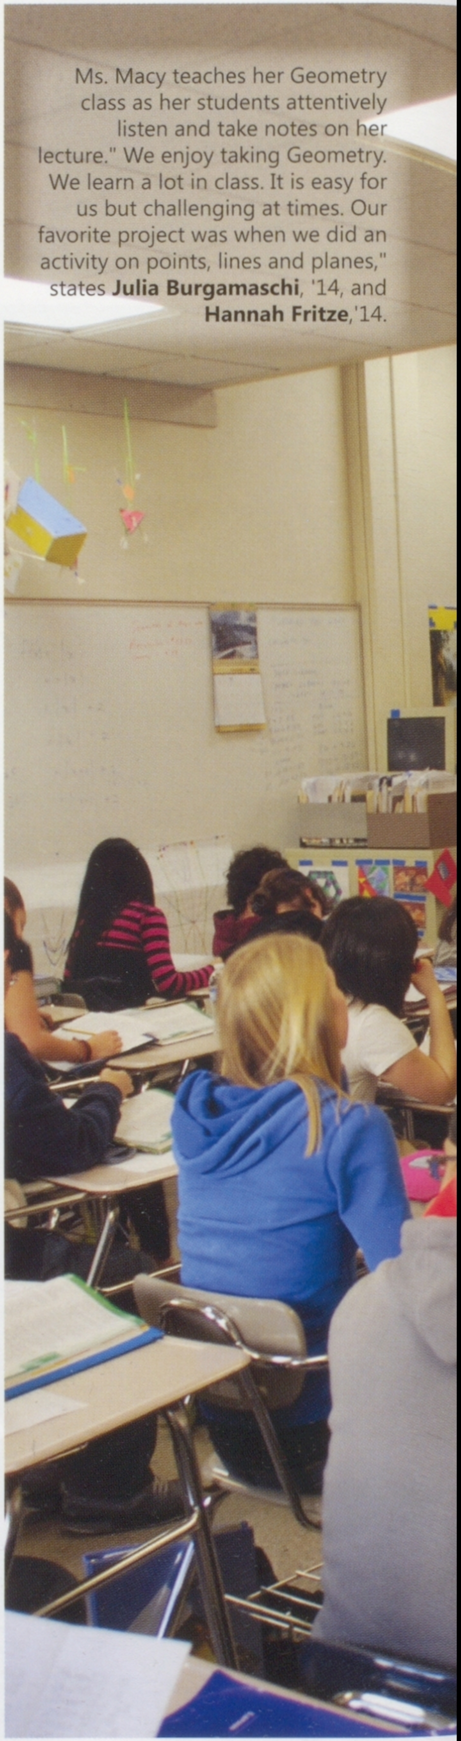
Brittney McGovern, '14, is taking Algebra 1 this year. She enjoys taking the class because many of her friends are in it with her. Her favorite thing she learned this year was about polynomials. "I like my teacher and her teaching style helps me understand math better," McGovern states.

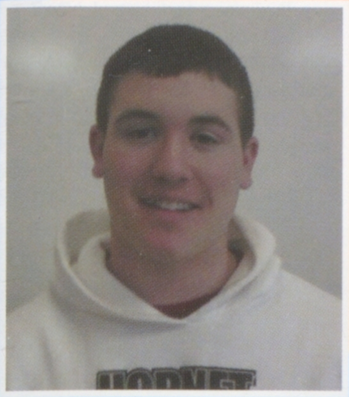
Mr. Byon has been teaching math at AHS for five years. He likes teaching math and enjoys helping students understand it. Mr. Byon enjoys teaching Geometry over other variations of math because it is simple and it makes sense.

Ms. Quan has been teaching for over 40 years. She enjoys teaching AP Statistics because of the students and the practicality of the subject. "Statistics has so many applications and knowledge that you learn that affects one's view on the world. I enjoy seeing my students gain confidence in learning and understanding math. Teenagers are both humorous and engaging. My favorite part about teaching is seeing my students become successful in life," states Quan.



Ms. Macy teaches her Geometry class as her students attentively listen and take notes on her lecture." We enjoy taking Geometry. We learn a lot in class. It is easy for us but challenging at times. Our favorite project was when we did an activity on points, lines and planes," states Julia Burgamaschi, '14, and Hannah Fritze,'14.

Math by Kevin Kinney & Kristen Rinck



"I take two math classes, AP Statistics, and AP Calculus BC. I took the classes because I like a good challenge."
-John Ruck, '11

"Math is one of my favorite subjects. My teacher is nice and gave us brownies when we got 100% on a test."
-Rachel Menedez, '14

To Infinity and Beyond

Math

Math is a unique subject present in every aspect of a persons life. How scholars learn depends on which teacher they have and how effective are the teaching methods. Some teachers use visual aids while others lecture their students. The subjects available cover everything from Algebra to Statistics. Every math course offers a different learning experience. Although some students may not think it is helpful later in life, most jobs require them to understand different variations of math. Some types of math have a higher level of difficulty than others. "Math is not always the easiest subject for me but it is one of my favorite classes. The best part about math is that you learn something new everyday," states Michelle Nip, '14.

Wesley Gee, '13, diligently works on his assignment during his math class. "I am taking Algebra 2 this year. Some days I don't look forward to going to math but the class is fine when we learn something interesting. Next year, when I am a Junior, I plan to take Pre-calculus."

Students in Ms. Harriman's class watch as their teacher explains a complicated math problem. "I'm in Algebra 2 and I like this class. I have learned a lot this year and hope to learn even more next year," states Rym Bendimerad, '13.

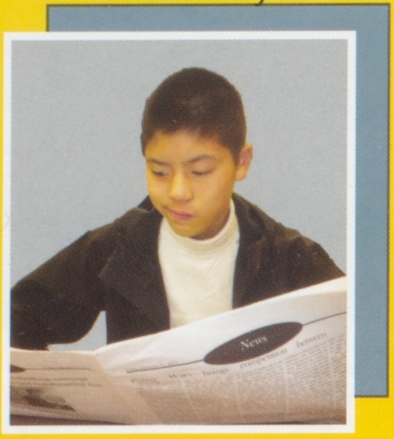
What are the benefits of being in Academy?



"The Academy program is a smaller school within the school. Also, I like getting more exposure to technology."
-Andrew Leong, '14

"This is my second year in Academy and I really like the sense of community that it provides compared to other classes."
-Tina Chuna, '13

"Being a part of the Academy program not only teachers you about History and English but also helps you becomes aware of what's happening globally."
-Kristy Trinh, '11

Juniors, Nick Beach, Trevor Toy, and Brendon Chen, stand up in front of their class to present a PowerPoint on their muck raking project. Chen comments, "It is nice having Mr. Carman as both an English and History teacher. As a class we work really hard but we also have a lot of fun together."

Senior, RoRo Lyons, has been in the Academy program for the past three years. Lyons comments his academy teachers Mr. Teixeira and Mrs.Goldberg by stating,"They communicate with each other to make the work load and transition between classes more manageable for their students."

Sophomore, Maxine Romualdo, blocks out the noise around her in order to maintain focus on her class work. Romualdo enjoys "being surrounded by my friends."

Jasmine Pulley, '11, interacts with a fellow student and shares a laugh during class.

Ms. Goldberg has a current event lecture everyday that ranges from global issues to issues in the Bay Area. Armando Andres, '11, says "My favorite current issue so far has been about the presidential elections. It was very interesting to look up facts about old presidents and relate it to the present."

Promoting Humanity

Millennium Academy

"Think globally, act locally" is this year's new motto for the Millennium Academy, a collaboration of History and English. "First, the Media Academy was a course that offered access to computers and labs which started up around fifteen years ago. Recently, we have been trying to focus more on issues of social justice like world hunger and education for all. Because this class is self-selected, you meet people with similar goals and spend more time together," states Mr.Carman. "What is great about this community, are the aspects of getting to know a smaller group and feeling a sense of belonging. Academically, it is a nice middle ground, not as overwhelming as an AP course but with the consistent quality to prepare for college," conveys Ms. Turpin.

Jamie Chua, '14, says that "What I enjoy about taking The Millennium Academy is how the teachers and methods make me think in a different way and helps me understand better. I enjoy the morning quick writes and the connections I am then able to create."

What sport did you enjoy the most this year?

"The sport I enjoyed the most was softball. All the girls got really into it and started cheering for each other, especially when we played against Mr. Dunn's class. P.E. is also fun because you get to hang out with your friends and just relax."

Zach Gentry, '12, throws Duncan Mc Adams, '11, while practicing for their final exam. Being able to use your weight to effectively to throw someone to the ground is an important skill in Judo. After learning how to do this, the students will demonstrate for the Dojo during finals.

1) Raymond Kelly, '13, is working on his squats while listening to music. Music helps Kelly get more into his workout. "Running and working out are my favorite things to do in class because I get to work on my body and feel good about myself."

2) Fred Smith, '13, is preparing to throw a football to his teammate. Having the ability to throw the ball and make it spiral is essential to making an accurate pass.

3) Joseph Riley, '14, and Okari Nyagaka,'14, go head to head to get the ball to their teammates. "Basketball and softball are our favorite sports to play while hanging out with friends and just relaxing," says Riley and Nyagaka.

A group of freshmen run laps around the baseball field as a part of their daily exercises in P.E. Teachers alternate between instructing students to run pacers inside the gym, a faster more sprint-based workout, and run several laps around the field as a longer, more endurance based workout. The shorter, faster run is better for building muscle, while distance running is better for working on cardio.

P.E. & Judo by Sam Embry & Angelica Parodi

The P.E. students listen to a lecture about the rules of tennis by Mr. Fredrick. This is Frederick's first year teaching P.E. at AHS and he is well respected by his students. "Mr. Fredrick is a really good guy and he makes sure his students learn everything they need to know about the sport," explains Ryan Cooper, '12, one of his aides.

Alex Wilson Leech,'10, is flipping his opponent Kevin Mercado,'10, in the air as a warm up exercise in the beginning of class. "I got tired of P.E. and Judo sounded like a fun alternative. It is very different than P.E. because I get to throw people," said Mercado. It is safe for students in Judo to throw each other because the mats are there to keep them from hurting themselves or someone else.

Edward Yang, '11, and Justin Yeo, '11, are preparing to spar. Everyday, to start off class, the students practice sparring and throwing. "It's fun and way better then doing P.E. I wanted to be with all my friends and learn Martial Arts. I also enjoy helping out the incoming students," says Yeo.

Get the adrenaline going

P.E. and Judo

Physical Education helps students feel motivated, release energy, and experience the benefits of fitness. It helps them keep in shape and maintain their health. Written tests are given in the class so that students can study the human body and how it works. "P.E. is fun because I get to run around and let that extra energy out. Also, I like to hang out with my friends and socialize."Kenzie Gatling,'14. Judo, on the other hand, is a modern martial art that includes throwing, or taking down, one's opponent. Judo classes include both fitness and self-defense. The class teaches students many skills such as grappling on the ground, controlling holds, and doing arm locks. Judo is a great way to develop self-confidence.

What do you like about science?

"What I like about biology is how I learn about the Earth and how every thing changes over time."
-Sarah Fong, '14

"I take environmental science and I enjoy learning how to keep our environment clean."
-Antonio Manibusan, '12

Mr. Carlson's Biology class is doing a probability experiment using coins. In the experiment, students throw a coin in the air and see if it lands on heads or tails. There is a 50% chance that the coin will land on heads and a 50% chance it will land on tails. This experiment illustrates components of physics that might not seem practical. Students enjoy learning real world applications of science.

OAKLAND

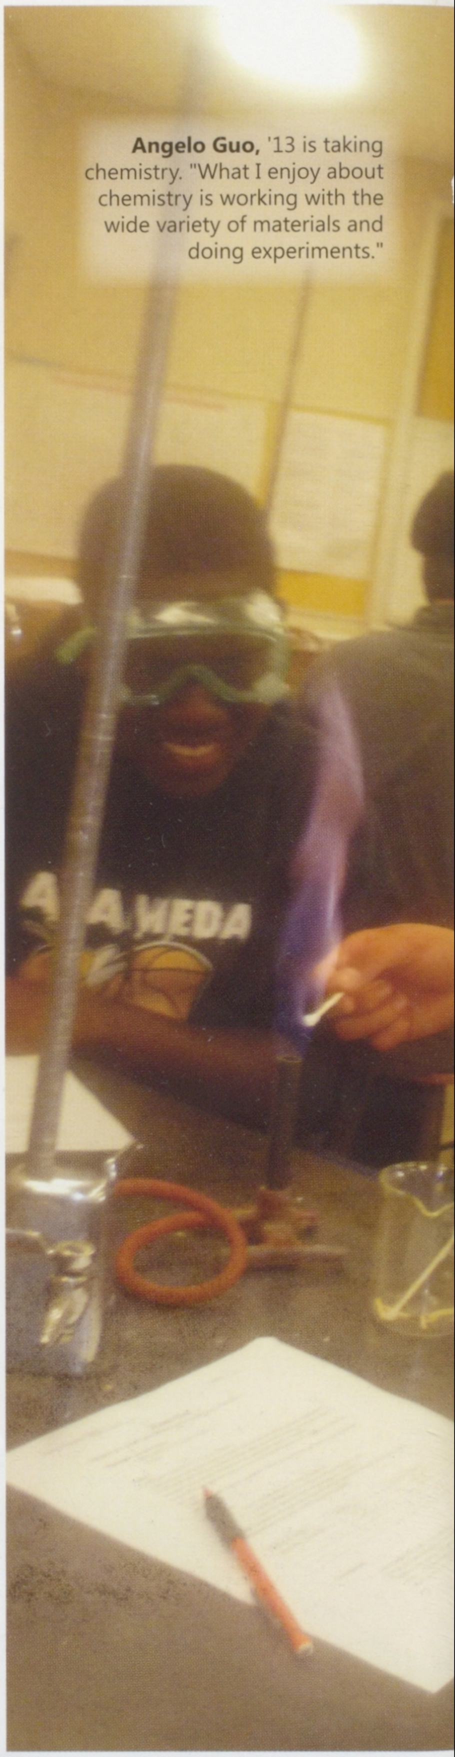
Jessica Lam, '12, and Vivian Chen,'12, examine a tank of water for environmental science. While observing the container of pond water filled with living organisms after leaving it outside, the girls create hypotheses about the future for these species. They enjoy this hands on application of science.

Ciara Morris,'12, conducts an experiment in her chemistry class where she heats test tubes with a lighted flame. "It was a really fun experiment, but I hated wearing safety glasses even though it is required," Morris explained.

Megan McGrath, '11, is working on her eco column. "What I enjoy about doing the eco colum is finding what kind of organisms live in different enviorments. Also, it is very gross to see all the mold and fungus that is all around the eco colum."



Angelo Guo, '13 is taking chemistry. "What I enjoy about chemistry is working with the wide variety of materials and doing experiments."

Science by Ken Lee

"Chemistry is one of my favorite classes because my teacher is really cool and I love doing the experiments."
-Fiona Murphy, '13

"I love how there is so much information in biology and I love to learn more about life."
-Meghan Carroll, '14

Analyze and Conclude

Science

There is a wide variety of classes offered in the science department including Biology, Chemistry, Physiology, Physics, and Environmental Science. Students dissect various types of animals and test mulitiple chemicals, encouraging them to get hands on experience. Students learn about the human body, laws of gravity, their environment, alternative energy, how things work, and how they affect their surroundings. "This is my first year at Alameda High and teaching my students about a topic that I love is the best feeling. I would say that I conduct a lot of experiments and students agree that they're fun as well as informative. Science and technology are the keys to our future," explains Mr. Sharma.

Drew Hui, '14, and Johnfrei Delariman,'14, are in Mr. Sharma's 4th period Biology class. They are doing a lab that compares how fast a person can complete tasks both with and without using a thumb. This tests the advantage humans have over animals and helps to explain how humans survive and thrive on Earth.

What is fun about woodshop?

"I enjoy green construction because I can turn scrap wood into things I like."
-Sean Gentry, '12

"Shop is cool because we get to learn how to use different tools."
-Daniel Jimenez, '11

"I like to make a lot of different stuff out of the scrap wood. It's a fun class."
-Jake Parades, '12

Art and Dance by Casey Thiering & Sam Embry

Shengyao Lu, '11, works hard on his next project for the class. "Woodshop is a relaxing class because we get to make things that we like," says Lu.

Oscar Reyna, '11, and Kyhre Bailey, '11, use teamwork to finish their final product. "Woodshop is a chill class, and we learn a lot," says Reyna.

Scott Rude, '11, is focused on finishing a project he has been working on for about two weeks. "I like woodshop class because we get to build stuff. It's fun to put your own creativity into a piece of scrap wood. It makes you feel really accomplished when you're finished," comments Rude.

Students learn how to use various different tools in shop class. Viet-Thai Phumsa Ard, '12, cuts a peice of wood to his liking using careful precision. "I like shop because I enjoy working with my hands and this class requires a lot of that."

Jonathan Stettler, '12, hammers a nail into his project that he has been working on for a week. "We work hard to finish our projects."

1) Cody Meloy, '11, is happily hammering a nail into one of his projects. "Woodshop is a cool class because I get to chill with friends and make things out of wood."

2) "I've been working with wood for fourty years and I love teaching construction skills I have used all my life to make money. It's fun watching the kids accomplish projects that they have been working on," says Mr. Hawthorne, Woodshop Teacher.

aking the Cut Every Time

Woodshop

In Woodshop, students learn how to manipulate wood into their own creations. The class uses the buddy system because some of the machines have the potential to be dangerous. "I enjoy building stuff and learning how to use the tools. We work at tables together so we can gain a good sense of togetherness when working on our projects. If someone needs help or we're stuck with doing a difficult task, working with each other helps us," Garret Young, '11, says. Lessons in Woodshop teaches students how to use many techniques such as sanding and sawing These are useful skills to have for those who are planning on having a career in construction or interested in being a carpenter. Students must also have a very close eye for detail because there are many finishing touches when completing projects.

1) An excited group prepares for Halloween by dressing up in festive orange colors and creating their big annual pinata to spook each other. Arts and crafts is always an enjoyable time for the students because it gives them an opportunity to express themselves.

2) Harrison Kusel, '12, skims through books at the library to find a good book to read. With tons of different books in many different genres, he has a wide range to choose from.

3) Caleb Chow, '12, focuses on his typing while in computer class. Using the computer is one of Caleb's favorite activities. He also loves dancing and playing sports with his friends.

4) Zachary Kirkpatrick, '11, works diligently at cleaning the tables while on the job at Bowzers Pizza on Park Street.

Joon-Hee Lee,'11, and Brendon Durkee,'12, work with each other to stir up a tasty stir fry for the class to share for lunch. The class enjoys eating fresh lunches made by the students. They spend quality time together while cooking and eating.

Functional Living Skills by Veronica Hall

While enjoying their lunch period, a group of excited athletes get ready to play basketball together. While supporting each other and coming up with good strategies to help make their shots better, the students enjoy their athletic time. They love the chance to be outside in the fresh air. Playing basketball has became a lunchtime ritual and they plan to keep it alive while they are attending AHS.

Savio Le, 11, and Christopher Larsen, '11, prepare to whip up a delicious fruit salad for the class to share. Larsen begins to swiftly stir the salad while Le happily prepares to mix in whipped cream. Cooking is a great way to bring the students together and meet all their nutritional needs. It is also a great way to get everyone involved and helping. After each of the cooking adventures, the team can enjoy all their homemade food together at the table. Then they help one another clean up the mess and wash dishes. Activities like these give the students experience working together and opportunities to learn about basic tasks that they can perform around the house.

Best Buddies is a club designed to give students in Lifeskills a chance to interact with other AHS students from all different grade levels. The club meets every Wednesday during lunch in room 401.
2) While trying to make a smoothie together Christopher Larsen, Zachary Donald, and Eugueni Gouliam, all '11, work together to get the job done. Donald helps Gouliam by holding her hand to help push a button to start the blender while Larsen looks on attentively with a big grin.

Helping Each Other

Life skills

The Lifeskills class offers a wide variety of learning experiences that develop the skills of students with unique needs. The students focus on WorkAbility, where they have paying jobs in the community. They also pursue many different art projects and different subjects to learn each day such as computer skills and Jujitsu. The students enjoy a fun and fulfilling high school experience each day. They are able to make new friends and interact with everyone on campus. Ms. Williams, has dedicated her time to teaching and offering the very best for her students. She spent many years focusing on her students and continues to enjoy every minute of it. With a number of different aides who come in to help each day, the AHS Functional Living Skills department develops amazing young adults to be prepared in the future.

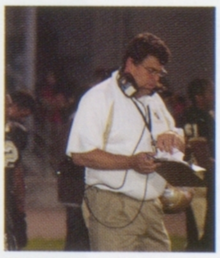
Sam Rausser, '12, was injured during the second game and was out for the season. Rausser along with everyone else who was injured, inspired the Hornets to play hard in their honor.

About your ... Hornets

Working hard from winter through summer into the fall football season can be quite tiring. Coach Steve Rochlin is the head coach and the defensive coordinator. Losing one starter is hard for any team but losing 18 of 22 is unheard of. Hornet pride took its place in the players' hearts and confidence was re-gained. The Hornets ended up making it to NCS as the 15 seed accounting for the adversity they faced.



Fiona Wong, Andrew Pavao, Zach Ribera

After stretching with her teammates, Emily Grimm '13, mentally prepares for her match by listening to music with a fast beat. Grimm says that the music helps her calm down and maintain focus.

Grimm '13, partners with Lauren Parsons '13. Grimm says "Lauren and I have been playing together for two years. Sometimes she is tough on but it helps me focused. We play really well together."

After a match, Grimm '13, does cool down drills and then cheers on any of her teammates that are still playing. When all the players finish their matches, they go out for team dinners to have fun and talk about the matches they played that day.

women's tennis

Before this year, Stephanie Owyang,'11, had never played tennis in a competitive league. However, this lack of experience did not stop her from trying out and earning a spot on the Varsity team. Owyang partners with Sydney Lewis,'12, for matches and competitions such as the ACCL tournament. The doubles pair enjoys playing together because they get along well on and off the court.

The first week back at school, the Varsity and JV women's tennis teams participated in a tournament in Fresno. Kimberly Phan, '11 says, "It was a good experience because it allowed us to take the time to get to know each other and bond as a team."

2) Laura Nguyen,'12, has been playing on Alameda High's Tennis team since her freshmen year. This year as a junior, Nguyen's competitive edge and consistent determination helped her made it on to the varsity team. Nguyen really enjoys playing in a competitive league and being apart of the team. Her favorite match of the season was when the team went up against Berkeley and won two out of three matches.

"I've only played doubles, but it is nice to be able to depend on a teammate."

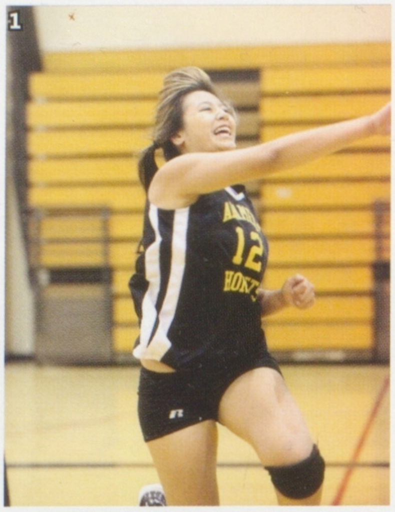
1) Jenae Monasterial, '11, jumps in the air and smiles in excitement after making a spike, "playing middle hitter is a hard position because I have to block all the tall girls, and time it perfectly."

2) Molly Groves, '13, prepares to hit the ball. Her teammates wait in the background patiently to see the result of her hit. "Being the setter I have to assist other players to get hits. It requires a lot of running, so it gives you an adrenaline rush."



Kristina Lam, '10, confidently brings her hands together. She waits for an opportunity to hit the ball and score points for her team.

The JV team joins a circle to celebrate winning their game. They shout their team chant and wave their hands in the air in excitement.

Frankie Willcox, '12, a three year varsity player slides on her knees to get a hit. "I play four positions, but I would have to say being setter is the hardest. It requires running all around the court and you have a crucial role for every play. The best part about volleyball is the teamwork. Everyone is working towards the same goal."

Paul Reichert, Varsity, '12, prepares to fire a practice shot as a warm up for both him and the goalkeeper. Shooting requires much skill and accuracy, especially to score into the small goal. The goalie's job is to block all incoming balls and keep the goal safe.

1) In order to receive a pass, Varsity player, Emile Siriot, '12, needs to evade the opposing team's efforts to drag him under the water. Water polo players must have exceptionally strong leg muscles to propel their bodies out of the water.

2) Julian Kizanis, Varsity, '14, lifts his torso out of the water so that he can make a precise, uninterrupted throw to his target. This is his first year playing water polo for Alameda High.

3) Dennis Wong, '13, launches the ball to teammate Thomas Rall, '14. Wong states that being able to catch the ball correctly is a crucial part of keeping the game in play. He also says that one of his goals this year is to improve his receiving and handling skills.

Varsity player, Ben Ingram, '14, is a new member to this year's team. Inspired by his brother to play water polo, Ingram attends practices regularly to improve his passing and shooting skills. Preparing to pass the ball, Ingram extends his arm to make sure he gets the greatest amount of momentum possible.

In order to fight off the other players, Varsity goalie, Anthony Huang, '13, dominates his position to keep his territory of the goal safe. Huang not only has to carefully watch his opponent, but he also has to anticipate the next move and prepare for any tricks or unexpected plays.

Varsity member, Anthony Tran, '13, makes a pass to senior Daniel Daniel, '11. "You don't really know what you're feeling because the adrenaline takes over your body. All you think about is getting the ball to your teammates," says Tran.

Top Five Meals

"Before a game or practice, I try to eat something healthy like a banana or an apple. Afterwards, I usually like coming home to a home cooked meal like steak, rice, and lots of vegetables!" - Max Walther, '12

"Whatever you do, don't get fried shrimp before a game. It gave me the worst stomach ache ever and I ended up getting really sick."

- Kevin Chen, '13

"I don't eat very much before a game because I don't have enough time. But the parents will sometimes bring tasty foods such as burgers and pasta."
- Laurent Siriot, '14

"Bananas! I always eat them to make sure I don't get cramps. After a game, I love eating chocolate cake, ice cream and brownies. I also really like lasagna and going to India Palace." - Jordan Butler, '13

"Anything nutritious and filling is good to eat before a practice or game. Food plays a huge part in water polo because that's where you get your power and energy from. Meat is a great source of protein." - Sody Enkhbayar, '11

Kevin Chen, Rachel Menendez & Michelle Galicia

- Winnie Chen, '12

1) Megan McGrath, '11, shields herself and the ball for longer ball possession.

2) Erica Escalante, '12, makes eye contact with her teammate for an assist for a goal.

Megan Klembith, '11, takes the opportunity to shoot the ball after a pass from her teammate. She makes sure it is high enough for her opponent not to block it.

Kelly Arth, '11, uses her body to fight against the other players so that they cannot steal the ball. Arth has been an avid swimmer since her freshman year.

Winnie Chen, Varsity, '12, explains how she prepares for a game. "In order to prepare before a game, I don't eat dairy products and I make sure I eat a half an hour before the game in order to digest. I listen to music that helps me focus and gets me pumped up. The coach tells us not to talk about anything other than Water Polo in order to stay in the zone."

Hannah Slicton Williams, Varsity, '12, tells, "before games, I usually eat Captain Crunch and listen to music that helps me boost my self-esteem. The hardest part about playing Water Polo is having to tread water for three hours in games and at practice. Practices consist of hard conditioning for half of the time and then we finish the practice with swimming."

Brutal Force

women's water polo

Water Polo (Noun)
A game played in a swimming pool by two teams of swimmers who try to throw an inflated ball into the opponents' goal.

Alameda Girls Water Polo not only helps create a fun atmosphere but also helps support young athletes and their abilities to become brutal Hornets in the water. It develops certain characteristics to make them stronger and more courageous. In Water Polo, brave Lady Hornets train to become leaders and guide their teammates in becoming the best. Varsity and Junior Varsity train hard everyday, practicing swimming skills and strenuous workouts. The whole team learned how to communicate by talking to each other, calling for plays and supporting the team.

Top Five Drills

"We have to hop out of the pool with our arms multiple times and our arms start to burn."
- Kayla Chai, JV, '13

"We do shooting drills, along with passing drills. We do this in two lines, then switch after we're done so every time, we face a different team mate."
- Nellie Cazares, JV, '12

The goalies practice blocking shots to prepare themselves for game speed.

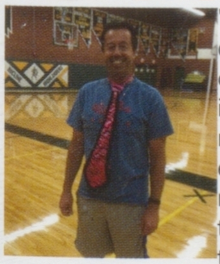
Top Five Drills



"My favorite drill is 4 on 4 cutters because it consists of many defensive elements. It really requires the players to think fast, make smart decisions, and constantly communicate with one another," says Coach Brad Thomas."

"I like when the coaches slow everything down and let us run the plays through. It helps us a lot, especially before games," says Alexis Konstantino, '13.

Kaitlin Owyang, '13, says, "I enjoy doing Olympic Shooting because it really helps the guards get their shots together before a game. It's really helpful."

"My favorite drill is Scramble. I think it's very competitive. It's good for us because it's a drill where you can't dribble the ball, so you really have to communicate with your teammates to try to score," explains Cecilia Nguyen, '11. "It's really fun when the score is close because you want to win so bad."

A drill that stood out to every player on the Varsity team was Full Court Shooting. "We all really have to contribute and make our shots and layups. We have a certain amount of time to score over a hundred points. When things aren't going right, we have to encourage each other to keep going," says Sahar Adina, '12.

During

With tons of spirit, the cheerleaders pump up the crowd after their routine at halftime. They wave and clap to show their dedication to spirit and to warm up the crowd.

After

Sophomores Juliet Leonard, Nicole Pham and Linda Lee rest after a long day of cheerleading. "With all the adrenaline in me when I cheer, I get very tired afterwards because it's so much excitement to take in," Nicole says.

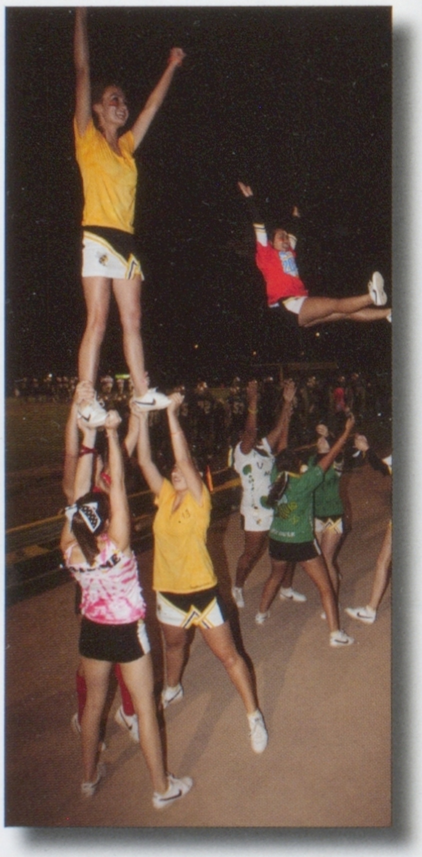
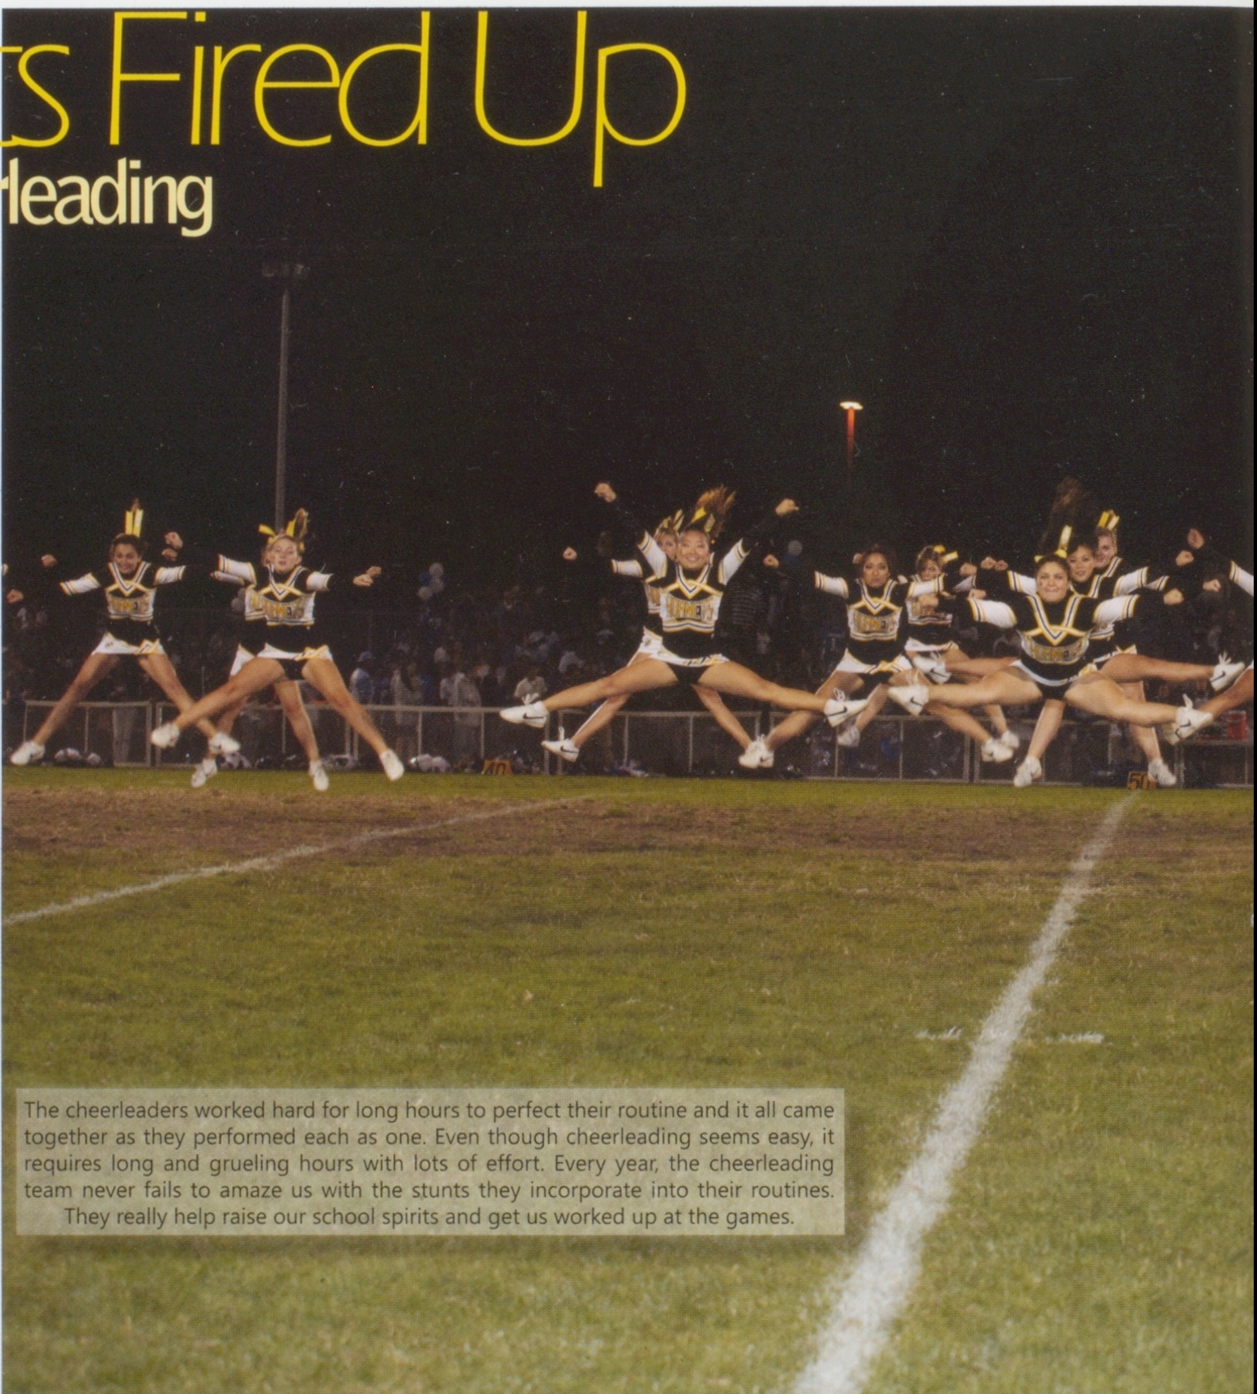
cheerleading



At the homecoming game on October 1st, the team performs intense and sometimes difficult stunts in their routine. Nicole Pham, '13, flies back down into her teammates' arms to safely end the routine. Juliet Leonard '13, finishes the routine and smiles with great spirit while three of her teammates hold her up preparing to bring her back down.



The cheerleaders worked hard for long hours to perfect their routine and it all came together as they performed each as one. Even though cheerleading seems easy, it requires long and grueling hours with lots of effort. Every year, the cheerleading team never fails to amaze us with the stunts they incorporate into their routines. They really help raise our school spirits and get us worked up at the games.

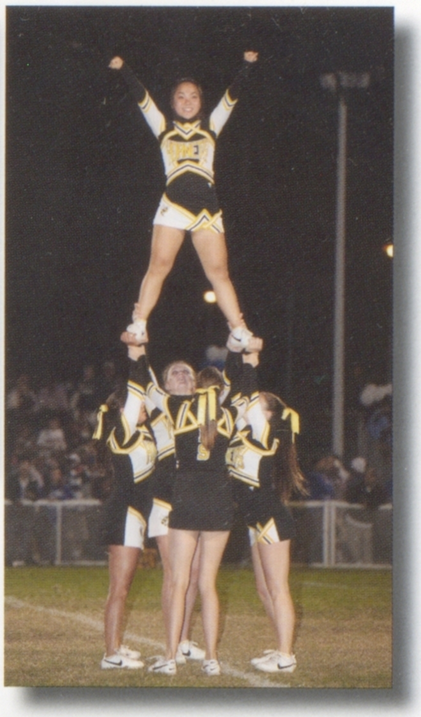
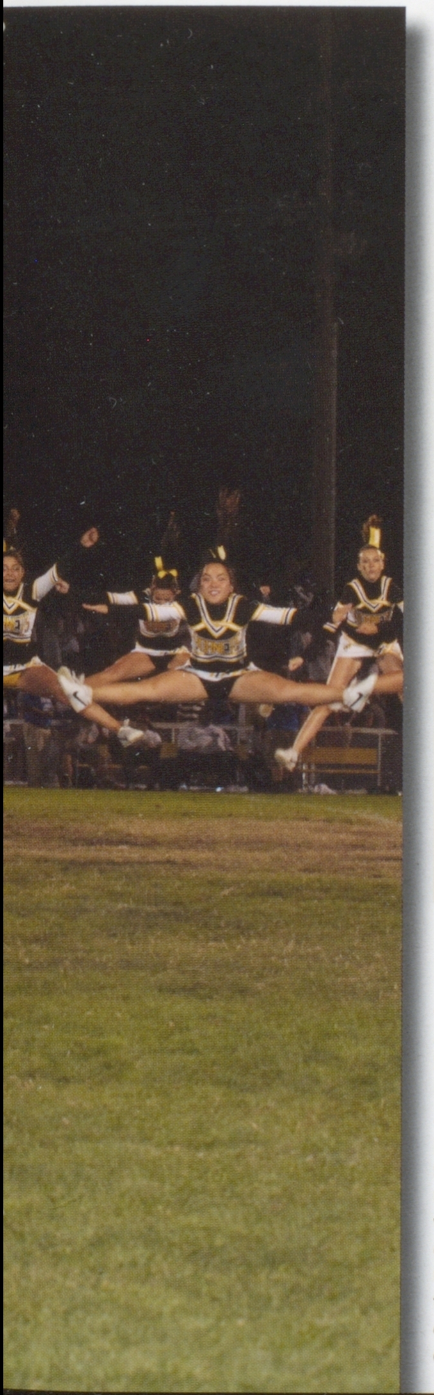
Sierra Calandri, '11, one of the cheerleading captains, enthusiastically begins a cheer during the homecoming game, which is one of the most important events of the year. The team practiced hard and were eager to make their routines perfect. "Cheerleading is something I've done since 7th grade. It is more than a sport to me. I kind of grew up with it," Calandri explains.



The cheerleaders do an impressive and sometimes risky stunt. However, they perform it with impressive grace and security and,of course, always with a bright smile.
Every game is a new and different experience. Even with the excitement, they finish their performances perfectly each time. What many people may not know, is that Cheerleading has one of the most highest injury rates compared to most sports. With many difficult lifts and stunts, these girls could easily fall. But because they are well prepared, it usually does not happen.



1) Cheerleaders do their split jumps all at once before finishing gracefully. "The girls are very close to each other and we always have a good atmosphere. It's almost like a family" Sara Ching, '11, describes the relationship between the cheerleaders.
2)The cheerleaders take their performance during the games seriously. "We really focus on our routines and the level of difficulty so we can practice and really stick them during performances. Even though it's my first year, I really take learning all the moves seriously to do as best as I can out on the field." Jessica Lam, '12, explains.

3) Vanessa Frandsen, '12, waves her pom poms and shows off a big smile while representing her Junior class. At the homecoming game, Vanessa and a number of other cheerleaders wear shirts with their class colors to bring extra spirit to the game. Alyssa Kondo '13, explains,"Wearing my class color made me feel even more apart of the school."
4) Intense workouts can be seen in the cheerleader's numerous performances. For many of them, dancing is very important and gives them a lot of confidence like Grace Guenon, '13, and Arielle Siem, '11, both show in their moves.

Evan Lee,'12, is quite a competitive player in the game of soccer. When he hears his teammates call, "man on!" Lee starts shielding the ball away from the opposing team.

Ken Lee,'14, sprints to the ball to keep it in bounds. Lee plays left forward and is known for making numerous assists to his fellow teammates. This is Lee's first year on Varsity and he plans to stay on the team for the rest of his high school years. "It took hours and hours of practice and dedication to be able to play Varsity as a freshman. I have only been playing soccer for three years and already I am passionate about it. J. S. Park plays for Manchester United and he is by far my favorite player. Park never gives up and keeps pursuing to reach a spot on a top team," Lee says after practice.

He plays both goalie and outside defense, using many different skills for his two separate positions. He uses the team practices wisely, explaining that he works on his skills and learns new ones from his teammates any time he gets the chance to. "I love the game! If I'm getting pointers from my friends, it makes playing even better. I hope to gain a spot on Varsity next year and continue playing throughout high school. Soccer has become more than a past time for me, it's a complete lifestyle," says Neff.

"There is a strong brotherly bond when we play and we really work together and know each others moves. That's really important because everyone has to work as a team in soccer and understand the basics of the game," Hoshang Hatfie, '11, explains. Diving is the greatest because you can do crazy tricks.
-Doug Hebel, '12

Sam Embry, '11, preforms a one and a half somersault in the pike position. "To be able to pike successfully, flexibility and air-awareness are important," says Embry. During competitions, dives are scored based upon the degree of difficulty, height, and distance from the board. With three years of diving experience, Embry hopes to compete in NCS and finish strong with his fellow teammates. To qualify for NCS, one of the divers must have a total score of 280 or above.

1) Tiki Garcia, '12, sets her dive in the air as she pikes into position. Setting the dive is important because it allows the diver to enter the water as straight and as gracefully as possible. Valuable points can be deducted if the diver enters the water crooked.
2) Tanner Embry, '13, jumps into the air while performing a hurdle, which allows him to land accurately on the end of the board. This is necessary for completing the dive, as it makes him launch straight into the air. "Diving is really scary at first, especially when you're a beginner. But if you keep practicing then you get over your fears," states Embry.

Coach Maureen Mitchell, leads stretches before the team competes in the diving meet. Stretching is an important component before and after diving because it helps relax the muscles, making it easier to complete successful dives.

Skillfully testing his distance from the board, Jordan Butler, '13, plunges into the water with a front jump. This allows Butler to be comfortable with the board before he begins diving. Practicing jumps before diving gives him the confidence needed to perform complicated dives.

1) Mariko Stenstedt, '14,focuses her eyes on the ball and begins to swing through fully to make a great hit.
2) The Varsity and Junior Varsity warm up together everyday before practice. It is important to warm up and stretch so injuries do not occur.
3) "I love being close with my team," states Mia Musso, '13. "It's the best to do well and work hard with everyone."
4) Katherine Johnson, '13, plays pitcher for the Varsity team. She is a force to be reckoned with this season.

Softball could easily be classified as one of the most intense games. Facing long hours of practice and rough field conditions, the girls softball team are proven fighters. "I love my team. We have a strong bond on and off the field," says Gia Morten, '12.

Jessica Ravetti, '13, scoops up a grounder swiftly with her left arm while using her right hand to protect the ball. This is always a good technique to use when playing softball because it keeps the ball from falling out of the glove when making a play.

Briana Kelly, '14, stares down her hit while swinging all the way through. To make a great and strong hit , it's always a good idea to keep your eye on the ball and swing with the most power as possible.

"I always have fun when I'm playing softball, especially because of the team. They're so much fun to be around and I love spending time with them everyday. We all become really close during the season," says Carrie Lee, '13. Lee has been playing softball for ten years and hopes play for the remainder of her high school career.

"Softball is a really important to me. I work hard everyday to improve," says Alexis Konstantino, '13. "I enjoy the competitive edge, but I have fun at the same time."

Catilyn Shener, '14, dives for the ball with ease to make the perfect catch. Diving is something that you must do in softball in order to make good catches and quick plays. It may be dirty and at times, painful, but any dedicated softball player will make a dive without a problem.

Alicia Fong, '11, makes a quick throw to a teammate during practice. "My favorite thing about softball is that it's unpredictable. Anything can happen at any given moment; it only takes one thing to start a rally," explains Alicia Fong, "I started playing because of my dad. He loves baseball, so he taught me how to play when I was little."

Megan Averitt, '11, plays center field for the Varsity softball team. She has been playing since she was five years old when she first began playing Bobbysox. She also played for AGSA, so she is extremely familiar with the game. "Softball has always been a great passion of mine. I love the adrenaline and excitement it gives me during a game. Averitt will continue to play softball after high school at Dartmouth College in New Hampshire.

1) Two swimmers dive far into the pool to begin their race. Swim meets consist of many swim teams from different schools who travel to compete.
2) Evan Shum, '11, performs a backstroke to warm up. The backstroke gives the advantage of easy breathing, but the disadvantage of swimmers not being able to see where they are going.
3) The swimmers take a dip in the pool to get a better feeling for the water before their competition. Thomas Rawl, '14, later says, "Warming up is an essential part to swimming. It gets your body used to the water temperature, and it helps before the race."

"Competitive swimming is a pretty friendly sport but it can also get intense. When there is a really good swimmer on the other team, we all step up our game," says Kevin Chen, '13.

"Swimming relaxes me. The feeling of relaxation combined with the thrill of competition is amazing. There is no better feeling than when I am swimming," says Myron Leung, '12,

Prenisha Guam, '13 says "I think that my favorite part about the swim team is meeting new people. When you first start swimming, all you really focus on is trying to improve your own strength. You want to practice all the time so that you can be the best. But now that I have spent a lot of time with my team, I realize that the most important thing is that your team becomes stronger as a whole, physically and mentally.".

Monica Lim, '11 and Fiona Wong, '12 take a break between laps to have a chat. "It was really difficult when I first started swimming, I think I drank more of the pool water than I actually swam in. But after a while, I've actually learned to love it!" recalls Lim. "It's pretty hard but I've worked at it and the coaches here at AHS are really supportive, so it gets easier. "

The butterfly, a.k.a. fly, is considered one of the hardest stroke. Many beginners struggle with the fly because it requires the techniques to be feasible. A strong shoulder and legs are needed. Julia McLean, '11, seems to have mastered the fly and performed it beautifully.

Cynthia Hughes, '11, dives into the pool for a 100-meter butterfly. Hughes has been on the swim team for all four years. She is currently one of the captains and a valuable swimmer to the team.

Koe Inlow, '14, and Jessica Alvarado, '13, take a break from practice to smile for a picture.

Tiffany K. Le, '11, swims her way to victory during the Tracy meet. Le describes the 100-meter breaststroke event as her favorite.

Top Stroke

Women on the swimming team agree that freestyle is the best stroke because it is easier than all of the others and you can go faster than some of the other stroke do.

"My favorite stroke is freestyle because it's really calming and it relieves stress. It's the easiest for me. Whenever I am just swimming for fun, I do freestyle."
-Monica Lim, '11

Morgan Hashimoto, '14:
"Freestyle is my favorite because it is the only one I am fast at. When I swim butterfly, I choke every other breath. Backstroke, I hit the lane lines and when I do breast stroke I don't even move."

Megan McGrath, '11, takes a breath while swimming a 50-meter freestyle event.

Andrew Courtland, '12, shows off his skills by serving the ball. He is one of the best players on the team and has been number one on the Alameda team for two years.

Courtland quotes, "Tennis helps me fine-tune my mind as well as keep me in shape." He enjoys participating in tournaments outside of school.

After playing for only four years, Courtland placed "top ten" in the Northern California under 16 age division for both singles and doubles, a very impressive feat.

I have always enjoyed playing with my friends on the court for fun. It inspires me when I watch the pros on TV. I would like to become a professional tennis player someday."

Brian Wong, '13, reaches for the ball while warming up before a game against Richmond. "I want to play tennis for college but it is hard to get a scholarship so I will just keep trying. "

Brian Wong '13 serves up the ball to his opponent. "Tennis is a sport that really fits me. I love doing it."

Kenny Thon, '12, jumps in the air to swat the ball away. It takes a lot of accuarcy and coordination to perform a good hit.

Eric Jung, '13, prepares to hit the ball while playing doubles. Tennis is a sport of patience. Players report that it is both amusing and relaxing. Additionally, the game has a quick pace so the players mst be prepared at all times.

Mathew Woo, '14 and Eric Jung, '13, play together as an agressive team. On doubles they can battle against two other opponents. Woo explains "I really like doubles compared to singles because having a teammate to get my back helps out a lot. It feels good when I get my partner's back too." To compare skills with a partner on the same side helps to sharpen and improve both players' skills.

1) Nathan Putnam, '14, is ready to strike the ball with his racket. Running is very important in tennis because the ball goes all over the court. " I really like tennis because it gives me the oppurtunity to make new friends," says Putnam.

2) Nicholas Raber, '12, waits for the ball to come to his side of the court while he plays doubles with his partner. While playing doubles, players can run to the ball sooner and decide where to hit it.

"As a track team, we run about 11 miles per week, but it isn't just running. Every step we take, we take with our teammates besides us and with our coaches support. Sure, there are days that we would rather not run, but everyone picks each other up and makes it easier to run our route. I would say that the meets and races are the best because we get to travel around the Bay Area and scout out the competition. A lot of people think the Track team is just running nonstop. But it's not. I consider it to be more of a family," explains Maria Sazo,'14

Evelyn Jo, '14, stretches before practice officially begins. Stretching, especially for a runner, is important because it loosens up muscles. If an athlete doesn't stretch, the risk of getting injured is much more likely. Coaches emphasize to their team the consequences of not stretching. Along with stretching, eating correctly and keeping yourself hydrated is very critical. Runners have to maintain a balanced diet to assure that they will be able to run.

"As a freshman, it was a bit intimidating joining the team because everyone is already familiar with how things worked. But the upperclassmen were really helpful so I adjusted quickly. I hope to continue running track for the remainder of my high school career."

Dominica Vitucci, '11, has been running Track for four years. Her favorite part is meeting new people.

"With Drama performances and school, Track helps me get my mind off of things. I just concentrate on running and nothing else. I have a good stamina which makes me run faster and longer. The most important part of Track is never giving up and always wanting to improve,"says Grace Wood,'11.

Name || Andrea Myovich
Grade || '12
Favorite Memory || "This was my first year on Track. I really liked the team because they were all supportive and welcoming. My favorite memory was the Dublin D-Fest. I enjoyed it because they played music while we ran so it seemed somewhat easier to run. It was a really fun meet with the team. I am a part of the "distance girls" and when we are together, we feel like a family," says Myovich.

Track and Field practice usually starts off with jogging a few laps. This allows the runners to get loose and warm up so that they can feel ready before the official start of practice.

Name || T.J Hadidian
Grade || '11
Favorite Match of the Year ||"My favorite match this year was at the Dan Gabor Distance Festival. I ran the 1600 meter race in the time of 5:02.21. Although I had some tough competition, I remained focused the entire time. I won first place. Everyone congratulated me and I really loved the feeling of winning. From that point on, I went to every race with a new mentality. I never doubted myself and always tried to exceed expectations," says Hadidian.

Favorite Meet || "My favorite meet this year was the Skyline Invitational. It was our first meet of the new season, so all of the rookies were pretty nervous. However, we all performed at our very bests and the outcome reflected all of our hard work. Returners were really excited to be back and we were all really impressed with our rookies," states Lee.

2) Kareem Badr, '13 , has taken the spot of captain in his first year playing volleyball or AHS. "Being one of the captains, makes me feel more like a leader and enables me to act like one for my fellow teammates. "

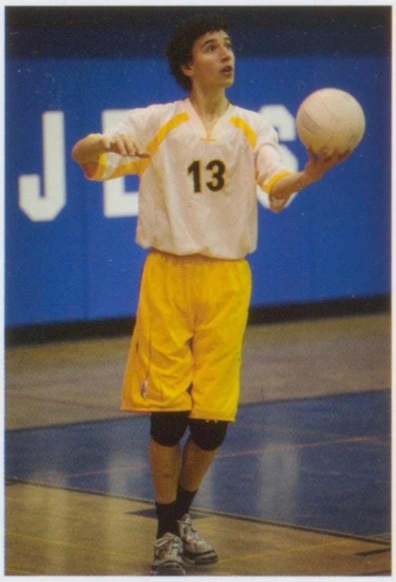
"The best thing to hear while your playing is the support of your teammates and coaches," explains Alex. The brothers both agree that hearing strict criticism is the best way to improve their game mentally and physically.



Skyler Wright, '14, focuses on serving the ball in the beginning of the Encinal game. Wright loves being on the JV team, and can't wait to learn more about the game. Wright has been playing volleyball for his club team, and likes the change of pace of the school's intense season.

Ryan Hunter, Conner Reed and Chris Young, ,'11, conclude that their last year playing volleyball for AHS is an amazing experience. All three boys love playing with each other, and have moved up from JV side by side from previous years. "When you're a Senior, you finally know everything about the sport, which person is where and who has your back. All the practices, games and training help me for the final game of the season, as well as my senior year at AHS," explains Reed.

Chris Young, '11, serves up an Ace during a home game against American High School. "My coach, Jeff Silverman, introduced me to the sport my Freshman year when he saw me in P.E. I had doubts about playing for the team, because I played basketball my freshman year as well. I definitely do not want this season to be over."

Year in Review 2011

1) After eight years of dating and two brief splits, Prince William and Kate Middleton became engaged on January 5, 2011. In addition to being married by the Archbishop of Canterbury Rowan Williams, two other prominent religious figures took part in their wedding on April 29th at Westminster Abbey. Middleton is know known as the Princess of London.

2) Season 10 of American Idol brought new voices and new judges. Fans were heartbroken over the departure of the harsh but comical judge, Simon Cowell. Fans raved that Jennifer Lopez and Stephen Tyler were a great addition to the show.

3) Glee took home four Emmy awards in 2010, including one for Ryan Murphy for Outstanding Directing, one for a Comedy Series and one for Jane Lynch in the category of Outstanding Supporting Actress in a Comedy Series. In 2010, Glee covered over 100 songs ranging from Britney Spears to The Beatles.

4) The 2011 Egyptian Revolution took place following a popular uprising that began on the 25th of January in 2011. The Revolution included demonstrations, marches, acts of civil disobedience, labor strikes, and violent clashes between protestors and security services and supporters of the regime of Hosni Mubarak.

The 2010 FIFA World Cup was held in South Africa from June 11th to July 11th. Rival teams and brotherly countries came to compete for the title of the world's best soccer team. 32 teams battled each other, eliminating a team every round until Netherlands played Spain at the finale on July 11, 2010. Wesley Sneijder went one-on-one with Spain's goalkeeper Iker Casillas, to score the final goal and help Spain take the win.

The San Francisco Giants took the title for The World Series Champions on November 7, 2010. More than a half-century after moving West, the Giants took the trophy to the city by the Bay for the first time. Tim Lincecum was wicked on the mound, Edgar Renteria broke a scoreless duel with a three-run homer in the seventh inning and San Francisco beat the Texas Rangers 3-1 in a tense Game 5 Monday night. Following the Bay Area Champions, San Francisco hosted a massive parade, flushing the streets with over 150,000 proud Bay Area Fans.

Colin Firth took home the 2011 Academy Award for Best Actor for his portrayal of King George VI in the hit film The King's Speech. Following his award, The King's Speech won Best Picture and Best Supporting Actor, Geoffrey Rush.

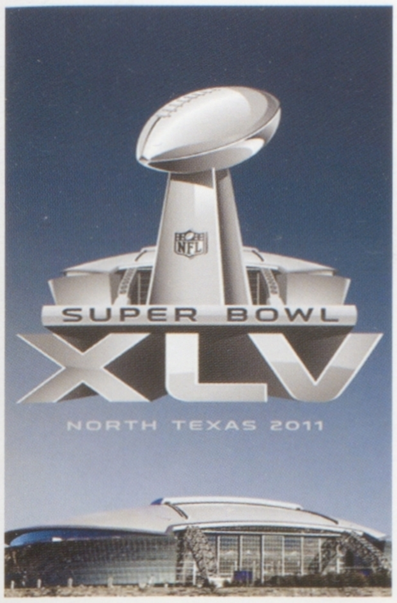
On February 6, 2011, the Packers defeated the Steelers with a score of 31–25. Packers quarterback Aaron Rodgers was named Super Bowl MVP.



Riots broke out in January when BART cop Johannes Mehserle shot and killed BART rider Oscar Grant III.

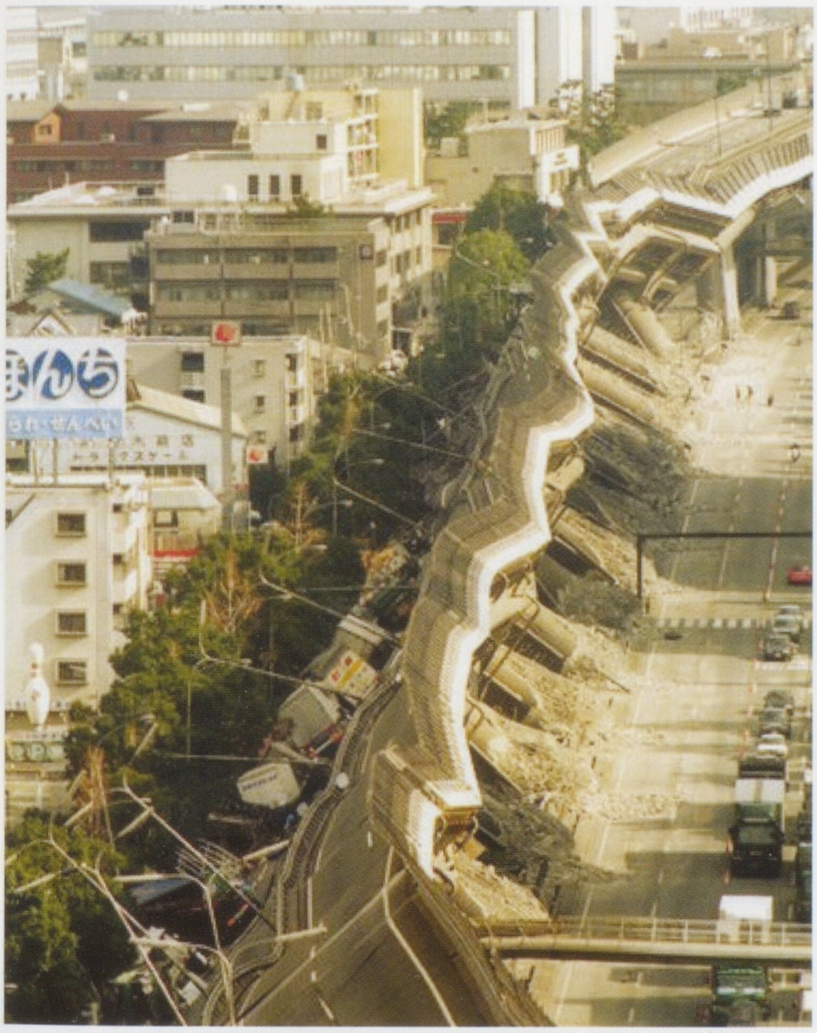
MTV's popular reality show, Jersey Shore, attracted the attention of many viewers in its third fist pumping season. Ratings demonstrated that the show was the most popular program on Thursday nights with 8.870 million viewers. The crew will return for a 4th season scheduled to be set in Italy sometime next year.



A powerful earthquake hit Japan's northeastern coast Friday, March 10, 2011. It unleashed a giant tsunami that swept boats, cars, buildings and tons of debris miles inland. For more than two terrifying, seemingly endless minutes, the most powerful earthquake ever recorded in Japan shook homes and buildings, cracked open highways and unnerved even those who have learned to live with swaying skyscrapers. After the earthquake, a devastating tsunami slammed into northeastern Japan and killed over 10,000 people. The violent wall of water caused even more destruction. Fires burned out of control. Power to a cooling system at a nuclear power plant was knocked out, forcing thousands to flee. A boat was caught in the vortex of a whirlpool at sea. The death toll rose steadily throughout the day, but the true extent of the disaster was not known because roads to the worst-hit areas were washed away or blocked by debris and airports were closed. After dawn Saturday, the scale of destruction became clearer.

1) Congresswoman Gabrielle Giffords of Arizona was shot in the head while meeting with constituents outside of a grocery store. The shooter was taken into custody immediately and Giffords miraculously survived the shooting.
2) Justin Bieber became every teen girls' dream when he released hit after hit song and then released his own biographical movie called "Never Say Never."

1)Tumblr has become a new and fun way of blogging for many high schoolers nationwide. The web site gives you the freedom to re-blog pictures from people, post pictures, music, links or just write about anything. Life Magazine and Rolling Stone both have began using Tumblr.
2) The release of the iPhone 4 for Verizon was uplifting news for many phone buyers. Previously, the iPhone was only available for AT&T customers. Now, the rumor is that it may be coming out for Sprint. Only Apple knows the truth.

LOCALLY OWNED AND OPERATED SINCE 1993

Bayview Environmental Services, Inc. offers a diverse array of services. To find out more, select a service from the navigation menu above or from this list of services:

Asbestos Abatement

Asbestos abatement has been the core of our service offerings throughout our history. We've worked on a variety of large-scale projects in government buildings, schools, hospitals, hotels, industrial facilities and more.

Lead Remediation

We approach lead-based paint remediation the same professional manner as we do asbestos abatement. We use the same experienced labor force, and our workers complete EPA-approved training and receive certification.

Mold Remediation

Combining knowledge, experience and capable management, Bayview can successfully complete any fungal remediation project, regardless of the size or complexity. We employ the most up-to-date, effective and proven mold abatement solutions.

Environmental Services

Bayview has a highly trained, specialized team to respond quickly to any unforeseen environmental hazardous. Bayview Environmental Services has the ability to schedule crews seven days a week, twenty-four hours a day to accommodate even the most demanding client needs.

SF ARTS GUIDE

Thank you

The Acorn Staff would like to thank a few people without whom the yearbook would not be possible. Shelly Townsend has contributed countless hours to make sure the yearbook staff stayed on task and produced high quality work. We would like to thank the teachers and staff at AHS for putting up with interuptions by the yearbook staff. Additionally, we appreciate the parents who submitted great pictures for us to use. Edward Jay contributed his photos for us to use and Joel Capra of Pro Image Studios provided us with professional sports photographs. Magali Sourbes helped us with all things technical and saved us on many occasions.Thank you to all those unnamed who have cooperated with us while we did the best we could. Also, thank you to our yearbook T.A.'s Calvin Tran and Monte Krohn.

Acorn Staff, it was my pleasure spending so much time with you this year. Each one of you holds a special place in my heart. Ms. Schulman, wow! Thank you for stepping in and seeing this through. You have a real gift. Kelly, thank you for staying after so many days with me (and the taco). I enjoyed our time together. Sara O - no words can explain my appreciation for your commitment to this yearbook. Your vision is now a reality and it has been awesome getting to know you. You are a great editor, a talented designer, awesome photographer, gifted writer and an incredible person. Your future is very bright and I am better to have known you. I wish you all the very best things in life.
Your yearbook lady, Shelly

Colophon

Volume 137 of The Acorn was produced by the yearbook staff and faculty adviser, Marisa Schulman at Alameda High School, in Alameda California. The book was printed by Balfour Publishing at their plant in Dallas, Texas. The account was serviced by Sales Representative Shelly Townsend and Russ Smotek. The 288 pages, full color was submitted in PDF format for a press run of 1000 copies and sold $60-80.00 Photos were taken by student photographers and Pro Image Studios. Pages were designed using InDesign CS4 and Photoshop CS4. Cover is a four color litho with embossing.
Fonts used were Segoe UI, Whitewater, Tekton Pro, Vladimir Script, Bell Gothic STD, Eras Light ITC, Maximo and Trajon Pro.

PLEASE NOTE:

While we have made every effort to make the book as accurate as possible, it does contain human errors. We apologize for the mistakes and know that our staff has worked very hard to make this book possible.

YEAR BOOK

I am honored to be a part of yearbook for four years. I had an amazing staff that got through all the ups and downs of this year, overcame all obstacles and produced great results. I continue to be amazed when I hold the yearbook in my hand and reminisce about all the time and effort that went into making it. The greatest part is all the friends I made and the feeling of coming to the familiariarity of my second family. The whole experience has been amazing!
-Sara Osman

By a stroke of good fortune, I have the privilege of advising the yearbook class this year. While developing the book, staffers took on enormous responsibilities and stepped up to challenges. It is a transitional year for The Acorn and we owe a debt of gratitude to Shelly Townsend for getting us through! The success of this year's book is largely attributable to Sara Osman for leading her team with strength, commitment and compassion.
-Ms. Schulman

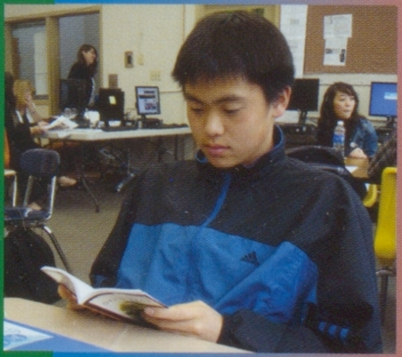
Kristen Rinck, '14, works on homework in between the lulls before she is assigned another page to work on.

Grace Friedman, '14, discusses page details with Ms. Schulman. This is a crucial step for all students in creating pages of the yearbook.

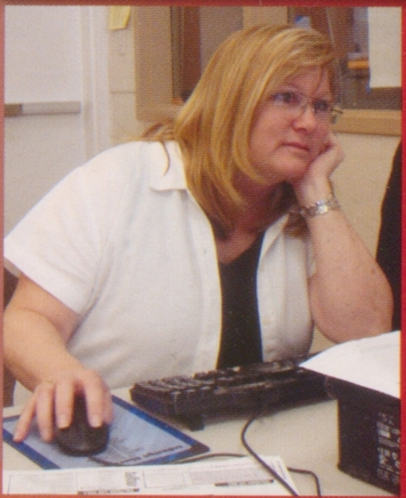
Rachelle Carrier, Katie Allen, and Sarah Jo Ciapponi ,'14, use the program Indesign in order to create layouts, place pictures and create captions, to make a yearbook page.

Angelica Rivera, '11, enjoys some brain food while working on her page.

In amazement, Audrey Yeung, '11, Kelly Huang, '11, Grace Friedman, '14, Katie Allen, '14, Kevin Kinney, '13, and Ken Lee, '14, gather around to look at this year's new cover!



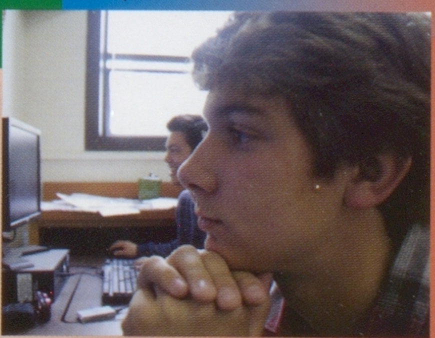
Ken Lee, '14, reads a book during class in order to pass the time.



Shelly Townsend, the amazing yearbook representative, spent countless hours helping us successfully create a yearbook.

Alvin Lee, '12, works diligently on correcting his proofs.

Angelica Parodi, '14, carefully writes a caption based on an interview she previously conducted.



Casey Thiering, '12, steps away from the computer pondering about what is lacking on the page and what needs to be done in order to create a great layout.
